VIEWS ON SIMON INDIA REFORMS REPORT DIFFER

London Daily Mail and Telegraph Foresee No Early Dominion Status For India; London Daily Herald Hopes For Transition Soon; Swarajist Press In India Says Report Offers Too Little.

Canadian Press
London, June 10.—London newspapers to-day devoted pages to most complete summaries of the report of the Simon Commission on Indian Statutory Reforms. All paid tribute to the great achievement of the commissioners and emphasized the importance and high value of their unanimity.

There was some divergence in comment regarding conclusions to be drawn from the report itself. The Daily Mail borrowed the phrase coined by the Minister for the Dominions, Lord Passfield, and said the report emphasized "the inevitability of gradualness."

The Mail saw nothing in the report affording the faintest countenance to the policy of holding out hopes to Indian extremists of early establishment of Dominion status.

The London Daily Herald, Labor, drew quite a different deduction and insisted the transition to a responsible government would have to be carried out as quickly as it might be.

The News and Chronicle, Liberal, saw in the commission's tribute to the manner in which Indians had worked the constitution set up in 1920 an answer to the practice that Indians were incapable of self government.

100,000 AT CONVENTION IN TORONTO

Rain Interferes and Shriners' Parade Is Postponed Till To-morrow Forenoon

Police Make Raid and Clear Out Gamblers Seeking Shriners' Money

Canadian Press
Toronto, June 10.—Rain to-day interfered with the arrangements for the grand opening of the International Shrine Convention here and the mammoth parade before the grandstand on Lake Shore Boulevard in which 100,000 Shriners were expected to participate. In view of the inclement weather the parade was postponed until to-morrow morning.

Twenty-four thousand delegates and visitors have already arrived by train and 100,000 people, including Shriners and their families, coming by auto and otherwise, are expected in the city before nightfall.

Among the arrivals at the Shrine Convention here to-day was J. T. M. Anderson of Saskatchewan, who received a welcome from W. J. Moffat, "mayor" of Temple Park, the Shrine city that has sprung up on the outskirts of Toronto. Mr. Anderson arrived with a group from Wa Wa Temple, Regina, and was immediately called for at the headquarters of the Imperial Council session.

FOOD WASTED

Toronto, June 10.—Despite weeks of planning for the great International Shrine Convention here, "all things are not what they seem," now that the festivity is here. For instance, a banquet for some 200 leaders of bands, patrols, chanters and other units was ordered in one of Rensselaer Gardens' restaurants. Vendors of all kinds were prepared and help engaged, but the guests did not arrive. The food was wasted and the manager is in the dark as to who was directly responsible.

GAMBLERS ARRESTED

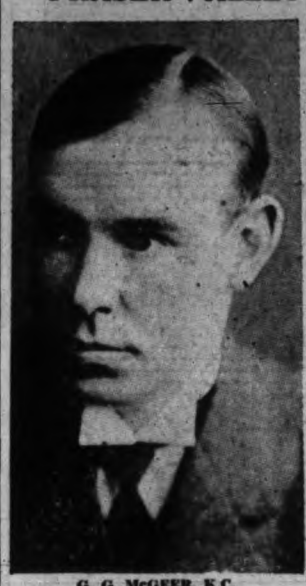

Toronto, June 10.—An elaborately equipped gambling hall in Exhibition Park here, said to have been arranged for the amusement of delegates attending the International Shrine Convention here, was raided late last night by Toronto police and a number of arrests made. Those taken into custody, police said, were well-known gamblers from Buffalo, Detroit and other United States cities.

At the Shrine Auditorium this evening Mayor Herbert Anscomb will extend a civic welcome to nearly 1,000 Odd Fellows and Rebekahs attending the annual Odd Fellows' convention, being held here for the first time in eight years.

Premier or Greece Suggests New Firm Foundation For Peace

Athens, Greece, June 10.—Premier Venizelos, speaking to the Chamber of Deputies to-day, expressed warm sympathy with the idea of a Balkan Federation looking to consolidation of peace in the Balkan countries.

M. Papanastasiou, leader of the Democratic Union, advocated a congress which would seek to form a federation. Such a congress, he argued, also would facilitate Aristide Briand's proposed federation of European states and he requested the government to permit the body to meet in the Greek Chamber of Deputies.

FOREST FIRE MENACE IN NORTHWESTERN ONTARIO

Toronto, June 10.—After several days of comparative freedom from forest fires, Northwestern Ontario, from Port Arthur west to the Manitoba boundary, again is faced with the menace of bush fires, according to reports to the forestry branch of the Ontario government.

The department is not worried, officials stated. The rangers have ample equipment on hand, with hundreds of fire fighters at strategic points to cope with any emergency.

Lack of rain in the northwest has made the bush and timber very dry, and fires lately regarded as under control now threaten to spread.

BANK IN OHIO HAS SHORTAGE AND IS CLOSED

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 10.—The Commercial Bank and Trust Company was closed to-day by O. C. Gray, state superintendent of banks, after a shortage of $975,000 to $500,000 had been found in the bank accounts of the Henry L. Doherty Company, Cincinnati branch.

HOT WAVE ON PRAIRIES IS DISAPPOINTMENT TO FARMERS

Winnipeg, June 10.—For the fifth successive day, prairie farmers looked in vain to-day for rain. Rising temperatures, with the mercury moving into the eighties, found the sun baking grain areas.

Not a single point on the plains reported even a trace of rain to-day to meteorological headquarters at Winnipeg, and forecasts offered no hope of relief. Fair and continued warm weather is mentioned in advance notices for the prairie.

GRANDI TO TALK WITH PILSUDSKI

Warsaw, June 10.—Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy, who arrived here last night, left aboard a special train to-day for Druskienniki, on the Polish-Lithuanian frontier, where Marshal Pilsudski now stopping.

Foreign Minister Grandi's insistence upon seeing the marshal has led political circles to think he had some important mission.

$30,000 ON HEAD OF CHICAGO MURDERER

Great Man-hunt Under Way Following Shooting of Reporter of Chicago Tribune

Chicago, June 10.—One of the greatest man-hunts Chicago ever has seen was organized to-day.

Police, State's Attorney's men, private detectives and the organized power of the press joined to track down the man who killed Alfred J. Lingle, thirty-eight-year-old reporter of the Tribune yesterday.

Rewards totaling $30,000 were posted $25,000 by the Tribune and $5,000 by The Chicago Evening Post. The Press Club of Chicago issued a statement that it stood ready to post an additional $10,000.

Early to-day the investigators revisited the murder scene—the subway that dips under Michigan Boulevard at Randolph Street and leads to the Illinois Criminal Station. They wanted to recheck every possible means of escape the slayer may have taken. They sought to learn whether some clue, previously overlooked, might be revealed.

REVOLVER FOUND
Already they had the killer's gun, a pocket revolver of .38 calibre; and they had the bloodstained handkerchief which the slayer used to wipe his face after the killing. The Tribune pointed out to be murdered since Donor, Meliet, Canton, Ohio, editor, was slain in July, 1926, following his crusade against gangsters there. Lingle's eighteen years as a Tribune reporter had been devoted largely to police reporting and investigation, a job that brought him into contact with most of the "Big Shot" gangsters of Chicago. He was well acquainted with Al "Scarface" Capone, among others, and once was entertained at the Capone home in Miami.

Lingle was instrumental in tracking down eight robbers over a period of years for Arthur Cutten, prominent grain trader and personal friend. Mr. Cutten sought the aid of Lingle, who was credited with the work which eventually landed eight of the criminals in prison. The ninth was expected to be captured shortly.

WOMEN PROTEST SENTENCING OF "MERE BABIES"

The mother of two of the delinquent children having a family of eight, and having to go out to work to supplement the meagre amount earned by the father. Under these circumstances the children got out of hand and stole to attend the picture shows, it was stated.

Calgary, June 10.—Transactions which took place on the floor of the Calgary Stock Exchange between the Dominion Oil Exchange, acting as agent for Solloway, Mills and Company, and traders of the latter firm were not accepted as legitimate transactions, but merely as "offset" sales, Kenneth Morrison, chartered accountant and expert prosecution witness, testified to-day's hearing of the charges of conspiracy against W. C. Solloway and Harvey Mills, stock brokers.

A. A. McGillivray, K.C., defence counsel, argued repeatedly that he could not see why these sales should not be accepted when it was proved the sales had been made on the floor of the exchange and in direct line (Concluded on Page 12)

AIM TO KILL IMMIGRATION FROM ORIENT

Eagles Forward Resolutions Against Influx to Premier King and President Hoover

Delegates Claim Exclusion Would Assist Unemployment Problem Solution

Resolutions aimed to exclude Orientals and Filipinos from Canada and the United States were passed unanimously by Eagles of British Columbia and Washington at their convention session here this morning.

The resolutions, which will be forwarded to Premier Mackenzie King and President Hoover, are aimed to alleviate the unemployment problems on this continent.

The message which will be forwarded to Premier King was presented by the British Columbia members in the session and read as follows:

"That we, the members of the F.O.E. at British Columbia, hereby petition the Federal Government to the end that it strictly enforce the present restrictive legislation against the further inroads of Orientals in the Dominion of Canada, and further

"Be it resolved that the best interests of the citizens of this Dominion demand that the total exclusion of all Oriental immigration alone will stem the great wave of unemployment now prevalent throughout the Dominion, and particularly the Province of British Columbia."

U.S. PETITION
Equally urgent petitions were presented by the United States delegates to the convention, who urged prohibitive restrictions on the immigration of Orientals and Filipinos. They suggested either giving the Philippine Islands their independence or else passing legislation which would prevent them from coming to the United States to aggravate labor conditions in that country.

TURK-GREEK TREATY SOLVES KNOTTY POINTS

20,000 Greeks in Istanbul Benefit From Pact Signed To-day

Istanbul, Turkey, June 10.—A treaty of friendship between Turkey and Greece was signed here to-day. The agreement was signed by the Turkish Foreign Minister, Dr. Tefvik Ruzhdi Bey, and the Greek Minister at Ankara, M. Polychroniadis.

The long awaited agreement was considered a prelude to Turk-Greek amity pacts, entailing a trip of Premier Venizelos in October to Ankara.

The treaty was said to consummate the friendship agreement made the Turkish horizon more peaceful than it had been for six centuries. Twenty thousand Greeks in Istanbul, who under the accord, are recognized as established residents, especially welcomed the treaty. During the last seven years industry of the two nations to agree upon their status had made them officially "lost souls," unable to procure passports or any legal documents.

The Turkish Government requires civil marriages, but not recognizing those Greeks as citizens of any country, would not grant them marriage licenses. Hence there were at least 300 couples living together without a legalized union who are now able to enter legal marriages.

ABLE TO TRAVEL
Forty thousand other Greeks recognized according to the 1923 agreement as established Turkish citizens may also benefit by the treaty through probable removal of existing restrictions such as that of being unable to travel freely.

The accord also calls upon the mixed commission for settlement within six months of 1,000,000 property claims remaining from among the claims of approximately 1,500,000 Greeks formerly sent from Turkey to Greece and 400,000 Turks sent from Greece to Turkey.

RAILWAY DRILLERS ON PLAINS FIND GAS, BUT NO WATER

Reports Tell of C.N.R. Workers in Eastern Part of Province Coming On Gas and Oil At Two Points, And Then, Needing Water Supply, Moving On To Third Field To Use Drills.

Winnipeg, June 10.—Oil and gas areas are so widespread along the Sturge cut-off in eastern Saskatchewan that Canadian National Railway workers are unable to meet immediate success in drilling for water, according to word received to-day by railway officials here. G. Cam Briggs, engineer for the road, states drilling at Kakwa and Reserve has encountered gas and oil, but no water.

Reports of an oil strike in north-eastern Saskatchewan originated when railway laborers encountered oil and gas at Kakwa while drilling for water on the site of the new stationhouse at that point. Drills were sent down 215 feet before the quest for water was abandoned. At Reserve, a nearby point on the new line, water-drilling was abandoned at 115 feet.

SENT TO NEW FIELD
Workers have now been transferred to Glenora, fourteen miles south of Hudson Bay Junction, in the effort to obtain a water supply. The railway construction work is centred along the so-called "Sturge Cut-off," which shortens the route from southern Saskatchewan to the Hudson Bay Railway and to Churchill, on the Bay.

The region of the drilling is near the eastern boundary of Saskatchewan, slightly south of the latitude of Prince Albert.

POLICE SEARCH IS STARTED BY STORY OF BOY

Vancouver Youth Tells of Body of Man in Baggage Carrier of Auto

Vancouver, June 10.—Reports of a fifteen-year-old boy that he had seen the body of a man in the baggage carrier of an auto whose driver mysteriously disappeared, started a police search for the body. The boy, Robert Reid, whose story to Detectives A. R. Gibbs and W. Bell instigated the police search, sticks to his story despite repeated questioning by officers. He said he and three companions were standing near the corner of Fraser and Sixty-fifth Avenue, when an auto drove up to the corner and stopped. A man carrying a black bag alighted, the boy said, and walked north to Sixty-fourth Avenue, where he disappeared.

PUT HAMP IN BOX
Young Reid told officers that he and his companions went to the car, slipping his hand into the box at the rear, Reid said, he felt a man's body "doubled up like a jack-knife." He told the detective he felt the stomach, knees and hands.

Mr. Hay was forced to decline because of ill-health.

GROWTH OF MANUFACTURES
In the course of his speech Mr. Malcolm said:

"We were told in 1923 by Sir Henry Dwyer that Canada could not expect to have a favorable balance," said Mr. Malcolm. "We were told it was impossible to meet our war debt. In spite of that we find the output of factories in Canada in 1929 was $4,000,000,000 against $2,500,000,000 in 1922."

The speaker reviewed fully the Dunning budget, declaring Empire trade was one of the most important features brought out in it.

"At no time in the history of the British Empire has there been such an important budget as this to the Empire as a whole," he said.

"If things are not purchased in Canada, we waste the money purchased in the British Empire. That is our challenge."

CONSERVATIVE LEADER OPENS HIS CAMPAIGN

Bennett Delivers First Address of His Federal Election Tour in Winnipeg

Winnipeg, June 10.—Hon. R. B. Bennett, Federal Conservative leader, opened his election campaign tour when he addressed an audience in the Amphitheatre here last night. The speech was the first in a series he plans to deliver at points from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

He summarized his platform for the election as follows:

1. We pledge ourselves to a policy of protection for Canadians in the development of our national resources and our agricultural and industrial life, and our consumers from exploitation.

2. We pledge ourselves to foster and develop agriculture and the livestock and dairy industries, now so badly neglected.

3. We pledge ourselves to the establishment of economic conditions, and to continuity of trade and freedom from the manipulation of home and foreign tariffs.

4. We pledge ourselves to the development of inter-provincial trade and a Canadian fuel policy, and development of a foreign market.

RAILWAY PROPOSALS

5. We pledge ourselves to the improvement of the whole scheme of Canadian transportation northward by the completion of the Hudson Bay route, and the construction of such branches as may be necessary to render it most readily available to every part of Canada; to the Pacific Slope by a Peace River route, and east and west by the development of the St. Lawrence waterways, and we pledge ourselves to aid existing traffic channels and to increase port facilities on the Great Lakes, Hudson Bay and the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, and to the establishment of a national highway system.

6. We pledge ourselves to foster and support a plan for great Empire trade, based on mutual advantages.

7. We pledge ourselves to a national old age pensions scheme.

8. We pledge ourselves to such compensation adjustments as will insure the benefit of the above policies to every part of Canada.

CONFERENCE AND TARIFF

Mr. Bennett said he had great hopes for the Imperial Conference at London in September, which had been first suggested by himself. But he questioned the action of the government in respect to British preference changes effected in the budget.

"What right had the government to tamper by this premature, unreasoned action," he asked, "the success of that conference? When our Canadian representatives go for negotiation with those from all parts of the empire, they will do so, if I have the instruction of them, with the principle steadfast in their minds that the future of the empire rests upon the upbuilding of Canada. They must also approach the problem with a fixed idea that there can be no treaty for empire trade which does not insure the proper safeguarding of the agricultural, industrial and all other workers of Canada."

"A new partnership is founded on mutuality of interest. Good business is predicated on reciprocal benefits. That is the basis upon which a prudent man desires to negotiate."

THE QUESTION

Dealing with the tariff, Mr. Bennett said:

"To prosper, a country must sell in the best available market and must produce more than it has any requirements for and the markets in which it sells must be always open to it. What does all Canada need today? Markets open to us the year round."

"What does the government do to help you? Does it provide for you the best and most profitable markets it can open to you? Does it use part of the revenues of the country to develop its foreign markets? Does it try to get the United States to sell in the Orient many, many times as much as you are. Your products are as good or better than theirs—something is wrong; we will correct it."

"Does it say difficulties have arisen in the market in Great Britain— we will oppose them? Russia and the Argentine are contesting them with you. We will effect an agreement for you with Great Britain quite profitable to ourselves that will increase sales."

COUNTERVAILING DUTIES

"It initiates and supports a scheme known as countervailing duties, so that when the United States puts up the duty on what she does not want from us and we might want from her, we do likewise. When France, or Germany, or any other country on the earth's surface, puts a duty on what they do not want from us but we want from them, they put up the duty to help themselves; we put up ours to hurt ourselves. But Mr. Mackenzie King says, in effect, 'Please observe that these countervailing duties only apply to sixteen commodities out of 1,200 items in the tariff.' Should we thank him and be grateful that he has not done us all the harm he might have, or should we say, as sensible people: 'If these duties are wrong in principle, they are wrong even to the most limited application of the principle. If they are right in principle, then why did you trifle with the application of the principle, why did you not extend it?'"

FUTURE OF C.N.R.

Mr. Bennett denied a report that the identity of the Canadian National Railway might not be preserved if the Conservative Party were returned to power. He pledged his party to the preservation of the Canadian National Railway. He went further and asked that his resignation be demanded the moment any sign might portend the breaking of this pledge. "Amalgamation, never; competition, ever; that is the policy I shall follow," said the Conservative leader.

"I haven't a dollar in the Canadian Pacific Railway—good, bad or indifferent," said Mr. Bennett in further denial of a rumor that he would, if he had the power, turn the railway road over to the Canadian Pacific Railway to swell its dividends.

Among the new exhibitors this year will be the Congdon and Battila of Yakima, Wash. They will show Aberdeen Angus cattle, for which they are famous, and their entry should strengthen the competition in this class considerably. It is anticipated they will have a big showing, as they have written for more entry blanks than those at first supplied.

From California will come an entry of Panco Holstein cattle sent by Frank F. Peilister and Sons, Inc., of Whittier. They have never competed in a north before, but this year will include Victoria in a tour of the northwest fair circuit.

ENCOURAGE YOUNGSTERS

To foster the interest of young people special efforts are being made this year to secure a good entry in the boys' and girls' livestock club section under the direction of George Bangsler.

"We are interested in the calf and pig clubs of British Columbia, and we want the fathers to give or buy good calves or pigs for the boys and girls, and let them care for and feed them." Boys or girls belonging to any pig or calf club in British Columbia are eligible to enter any of the twelve classes. To encourage entries boy and girl competitors will be provided with suitable sleeping accommodation, under proper chaperonage, and will be guests of the association for their meals in the directors' dining-room.

Of exceptional interest at the fair this year will be the loan exhibit of twenty-four famous pictures from the National Gallery of Canada.

Prairie Market Hungry For B.C. Strawberries

Supplies From Oregon Scarce and Missouri Berries Are Poor

First Car Rolled From Saanich Yesterday; Good Prices Expected

Owing to scarcity of strawberries from Hood River, Ore., and the poor quality of Missouri berries the prairie market is hungry for British Columbia strawberries, according to the report issued yesterday by the Markets Branch of the Department of Agriculture.

The Saanich berry-growers dispatched their first car-load yesterday and although none went forward to-day it is likely that Keating will ship one to-morrow.

The report follows:

"Rain Monday morning and weather conditions still unsettled resulted in no picking of berries that day. Berries picked up to the end of the week were sold locally. Sunday's picking being heavy enabled Saanich and Gordon Head Associations to ship out their first car to the prairie this morning. No car will be shipped from these associations to-day. Keating Co-operative have almost a sufficient number of crates picked to make a carload."

The following is a copy of wire received this morning from the Markets Commissioner who is in Winnipeg: "Fine, warm weather prevails at all prairie points. Winnipeg has used several cars of fine head lettuce from Vancouver. These sold at $2.00 per crate F.O.B. shipping point. One car sold off a little due to the development of slimy decay. The trade here is looking forward with interest to the start of the strawberry deal for B.C. Poor quality Missouri berries at the end of their season and a scarcity of berries in Hood River has made this market hungry for berries. Hazy did not get the first car out until Sunday and Victoria berries are expected to roll Monday. It is anticipated that they will sell in Winnipeg at about $4.50 per crate delivered. The Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Victoria visited the wholesale row last Friday and met the managers of most of the jobbing houses. He also met the University man and the Dominion fruit inspectors. Messrs. R. McKinnon and W. Beatty of Vancouver were interested visitors to the Ross Avenue wholesale fruit row this week. Conditions at all prairie points are favorable to a good start of the B.C. fruit season."

A slight falling off in egg production has caused a firming up of prices to producer, although this has not been extended to the wholesale prices. There are some further light reductions in poultry prices which are mostly due to receipts of very light stock in poor condition, the lowered figures being desired to take care of such stock. Bran, shorts and middlings have fallen off another $2.00 per ton, making a total reduction of $4.00 in three times during the past two weeks. In connection with these feed figures it may be pointed out that they apply only to such quantities as the average poultryman would order and not carloads, which naturally are substantially lower. The strawberry deal is as yet in a healthy condition, prices on local berries ranging between $4.25 and $4.50 per crate. There are a few importations still coming in from Seattle. Some of this stock has sold, during the day, as low as $3.50, which means a loss to the importer when duty and other incidental expenses are considered. The quality was poor and the berries in many cases were soft and dirty. New potatoes are holding at about 8c. per pound, receipts from local sources being as yet light.

"Imports of fruit and vegetables at Vancouver and Victoria, week ending June 8: Washington, strawberries, 99 crates; asparagus, 2,300 crates; old potatoes, 40,000 pounds. New potatoes from Washington and California, 107,251 pounds. California, cantaloupes, 680 crates; carrots, 1,774 crates; celery, 97 crates; cabbage, 617 crates; beets, 122 packages; onions, 355 sacks. Eggs to producer, cases returned: French extra, 25c. dozen; fresh firsts, 24c. dozen; pullet extras, 22c. dozen. Poultry, live to shipper: Light hens, 15c. pound; medium hens, 18c. pound; heavy hens, 21c. pound; stage, 10 to 15c. pound; broilers, light, 18c. pound. Young ducks, 18c. pound; old ducks, 15c. pound."

"Business during the last week has been about normal. Two cars of Texas tomatoes arrived during the week in a much over-ripe condition, resulting in a weakening of the market. Texas peaches are selling at $4.50 to $5. B.C. peaches are selling at $5.50 to $6.00 per four-basket crate. Early Lambs cherries are arriving from B.C. and selling at $4.75 to $5 per four-basket crate. Washington Black Tartarian cherries in fifteen-pound boxes are selling at $3.75. The rhubarb market was overworked with heavy supplies coming from B.C., and the local supply being offering in increasing supplies. Strawberries for Missouri, limited supply at twenty-four-quart crate $10.50. SASKATOON

"The second straight car of Missouri strawberries arrived during the week and contained very ripe, soft berries, selling for $0.75 per twenty-four-quart crate. Apple stocks are very low with demand slow and movement light. The cucumber market was practically monopolized last week by Texas hampers, bushel size, which sell at $3. House cucumbers were almost forced off the market by them. There are no B.C. tomatoes on the market. Texas tomatoes are improving in quality and condition with prices slightly weaker at $4.25 to $4.50. Onion stocks are very low and prices stronger. B.C. yellow onions in crates are practically the only supplies and prices range from $4.50 to $5 per hundred. Head lettuce from B.C. is selling very well in competition with the California lettuce, but is not as solid. California lettuce is quoted at $5.75 to $6. B.C. lettuce at $4.50 per crate. Asparagus from Washington in eighteen-pound crates is selling at $3. Small quantities of B.C. asparagus are being brought in direct by retailers."

Prairie Market Hungry For B.C. Strawberries

Supplies From Oregon Scarce and Missouri Berries Are Poor

First Car Rolled From Saanich Yesterday; Good Prices Expected

Owing to scarcity of strawberries from Hood River, Ore., and the poor quality of Missouri berries the prairie market is hungry for British Columbia strawberries, according to the report issued yesterday by the Markets Branch of the Department of Agriculture.

The Saanich berry-growers dispatched their first car-load yesterday and although none went forward to-day it is likely that Keating will ship one to-morrow.

The report follows:

"Rain Monday morning and weather conditions still unsettled resulted in no picking of berries that day. Berries picked up to the end of the week were sold locally. Construction of Building at Nanaimo Awaits Sanction of Council

Nanaimo, June 10.—Plans for the new Scout Hall were considered in committee by the City Council last evening. Mrs. Hollingworth, secretary of the Boy Scout Auxiliary, informed the council that the organization was ready to proceed with the erection of the hall.

Alderman Barby presided in place of Mayor Hall, who is absent from the city.

City Wiring Inspector A. R. Thornicroft resigned his position preliminary to leaving for Bellingham.

The Deputy Minister of Defence wrote, intimating that H.M.S. Dauntless would visit Nanaimo in July. The council moved that local organizations be asked to co-operate in entertaining the crew.

Expenditures for public works for the week were: Public works $685, Waterworks Department $88.50.

Alderman Barby reported that work on the new dam was progressing favorably, adding that the engineer would make a report to the council at next week's meeting.

EAGLES BEHIND PENSION MOVE

Will Again Attempt to Get Old Age Pension Through in State of Washington

Over 47,000 Eagles in the State of Washington will exert their influence toward the passage of the Old Age Pension Bill through the state legislature at its session in January. It was determined at yesterday's session of the annual convention in the Crystal Garden.

The Eagles will endeavor to secure a pension of $30 a month for people over the age of sixty-five in Washington. This means a raise from the $25 which was last submitted to the government. It also provides that no person shall draw more than $360 a year.

The move has been introduced into the Washington legislature twice before and has passed, only to have the governor veto the move.

At the next session, the Eagles will do their utmost to get the bill through.

Bombay, June 10.—The attitude of the Swarajist press to-day to the report of the Simon Commission on Indian Statutory Reform was illustrated best by the heading in The Bombay Chronicle: "Simon Commission Insults India."

The newspaper, an organ of the India National Congress, said it was fairly infinitely worse than its critics feared. The Times of India, leading English daily in the country, remarked that the unanimity of the report was of good omen. The paper observed it provided a comprehensive survey and review of the people's condition throughout the land.

Indian Liberal comment on the Simon Commission report was severely critical.

SETHNA'S OPINION
Sir Phiroze Sethna, president of the Liberal Federation, said that, reading between the lines, he was tempted to believe the recommendations still to be made would be such as to give India as little as possible and to keep Britain's hold on her as long as she can.

Sir Chimanlal Setalvad, member of the Bombay Council, said it was fairly clear the commission's recommendations would be of a character which would never satisfy Indian national aspirations.

H. P. Joddy, president of the Mill Owners' Association, said he was certain the recommendations would have to be of a most advanced character if they were to receive the slightest consideration in the country.

CHAIRMAN SPEAKS
Fritwell, Oxfordshire, Eng., June 10.—Sir John Simon, during an interview at his home here to-day, expressed pleasure at the prominence the newspapers had given to the commission's report on India. He said:

"I think the novel plan of producing the report in two volumes, with an interval between, has been abundantly justified because it is evident the public does intend to consider the conditions of the Indian problem so as to be able to form conclusions as to the recommendations which are to be put forward a fortnight hence.

"I want to emphasize that the unity of the report, really speaking, is that it is the work of my colleagues as well as myself, because we have all done our full share in producing it."

London, June 10.—All other problems of the British government were driven into the background to-day with publication of the first volume of the report of the Commission on Indian Statutory Reform, of which Sir John Simon was chairman.

The commission, after two and one-half years' labor, has made its recommendations regarding the future government of India. The first volume deals only with the historical and geographical background of the Indian Empire, and is intended to provide the background for the recommendations which will follow in the second volume to be published June 24.

UNANIMITY SHOWS STRENGTH
Sir John Simon, relieved of his long and arduous task as head of the commission, is prepared to sail for North America soon to attend the annual meetings of the Canadian and American Bar Associations. He is enthusiastic over the fact that a commission representing the Conservative, Liberal and Labor opinions has been able to submit a unanimous report to King George.

Changerys believe the recommendations, which will remain as a closed guarded secret until June 24, will be regarded as a Liberal from the British viewpoint. It remains to be seen what the Indian reaction will be. One possibility advanced is that the commission will recommend Dominion status for India within a definite number of years.

AS PART OF EMPIRE
That part of the report now published, dealing with the fundamental Indian policy in India is based upon the Montague-Chelmsford reforms of 1919 and has as its fixed object "progressive realization of responsible government in India as an integral part of the British Empire." But it is equally part and parcel of pronouncements of 1917 and 1919 that progress in the attainment of this avowed object "can be achieved by successive stages."

IMPATIENCE SEEN
Again, there are such pregnant sentences as these:

"Indian political thought finds it tempting to resort to history and is unwilling to wait for the realization of a prolonged evolution. It is impatient of the doctrine of gradualness.

"We would say without the slightest hesitation that with all its variations of expression and intensity the political sentiment which is most widespread among all educated Indians, is the expression of a demand for equal rights with the rest of the world."

ALL SUPPORT DEMAND
While the experienced Indian member of the services will admit the benefits of the British Empire, the difficulties of self-government, while the members of a minority community first, will stipulate for safeguards, and while moderate means will look for a more gradual method, which will not openly denounce, all alike are in sympathy with the demand for equal status with the European world, and the Indian demand for self-determination for the Indians.

The report concludes: "The British people, so long accustomed to self-government, are aroused to sympathize with the movement even though they may deplore some of its manifestations. We are pledged to help India along her way and constructive effort is needed."

OLD CUSTOMS
In our view, says the report, "the most formidable obstacle to the evolution which India is suffering have their roots in social and economic customs of long standing, which can only be remedied by the action of the Indian people themselves. They are much less likely to be remedied if the blame for their continuance can be put, however unjustly, on the British."

"We desire to see the forces of public opinion which exist in India concentrated on the practical work of reform. It is only when the Indian people themselves are really faced that the inadequacy of general phrases begins to be realized."

222 LANGUAGES
In the earlier chapters the report lists the various languages spoken in the Indian states. It reveals not a single nation, but a land of many races, a confusion of tongues and often of warring religions.

It is a land with a population thirty times that of Canada, with 72,000,000 of its people within the boundaries of 600 Indian states, states which, while they dwell into the nine provinces of British India, are not British territory at all, although they are under

CHURCH FUNDS SHOW DEFICIT

Canadian Presbyterian General Assembly Discusses Finances

Hamilton, Ont., June 10.—A deficit of $22,735.12 was reported to the Presbyterian General Assembly yesterday by the treasurer, E. W. McNeill of Toronto. The objective set for the church budget was $600,000, but the Presbyterian of Ottawa was the only one to reach its allocation. Expenditures were $622,735.12, while the revenue totaled $579,999.68.

Home missions accounted for over $217,000, and about $165,000 went to the work abroad. Mr. McNeill and James Rodger of Montreal joined in urging expenditures be reduced and kept within the revenue of the church, and that a reserve fund be established to provide for emergencies in the future.

Rev. Dr. O. G. Dale of Toronto told the assembly that on the basis of a minimum income, Presbyterian giving would total $12,900,000 if all members offered the tithe. One-twentieth of that amount, he said, would more than cover the objective of $600,000.

A request from the Synod of Saskatchewan that ministers should not be compelled to pay into the pension fund was refused, and several speakers emphasized the necessity of requiring every minister to protect himself against his old age.

It was unanimously decided to hold the General Assembly in Knox Church, Toronto, during June, 1931.

SIR W. ALLARDYCE DIES IN LONDON

Former Governor of Newfoundland Succumbs at Sixty-eight

London, June 10.—Sir William Allardyce, Governor of Newfoundland from 1922 until 1928, died early this morning. He was in his sixty-ninth year.

William Lamond Allardyce was born in November 14, 1861, a son of the late Colonel James Allardyce, L.D., and his wife, Jean, nee Goring. Sir William's first marriage was to an Australian, Constance Angel Greene, who died in 1919. There were two daughters. In 1920 he married Miss Elizabeth Farquhar, a widow.

In early life, Sir William entered the British Foreign Office as clerk and interpreter in a consular department. In 1904 he became Governor of the Falkland Islands, a post he held for ten years. After serving in like positions in the Bahamas and Tasmania from 1912 to 1922, he became Governor of Newfoundland. During a lengthy career, he was both editor and sportsman as well.

the suzerainty of the British Crown. His vast population speaks 222 vernacular languages with only 2,500,000 literate in English, the language with the widest range.

LEARNERS IN TOWNS
The report emphasizes the essentially rural character of the Indian population, but remarks it is in the towns where are to be found the barristers and journalists who predominate among the leaders of Indian public opinion and from whose ranks the most part are drawn the propagandists, candidates and public representatives of all parties and communities.

HINDUS AND MUSLIMS
The antagonism between the Hindus and Moslems, analogous to the separations between religious demonstrations in Europe, the report finds. It is a basic opposition, it says, "manifesting itself at every turn, in social customs and economic competition, as well as in mutual religious antipathy."

CHRISTIAN COMMUNITY
Among the other religious communities dealt with in the report are the Indian Christians, whose numbers have increased rapidly during the last half century, and claim to be the third largest body in India, numbering 4,500,000 converts. The commission pays a tribute to the "splendid services of these missionaries."

CASTE SYSTEM
Influence, social, economic and political, the commission finds, are tending to a rigidification of the caste system. But in many places, children of "untouchables" are either excluded from the ordinary schools, supported in whole or in part by public funds, or else are required to sit apart.

"In Malabar is still to be found the phenomenon, now almost unknown elsewhere, of unapproachability. The unapproachables must not come within certain distances of high-caste Hindus.

POSITION OF WOMEN
One of the most interesting sections of the report deals with the progress of women in India, and it is remarked that the progress movement for Indian women "holds the key of progress. The results it may achieve are incalculably great. It is not too much to say India owes its best hope for the future to the women play their part as educated citizens."

The report says the feeling against the purdah is fast gaining ground. The movement against child marriage is gathering force.

Just as India differs from any of the self-governing Dominions in its competing arms and rival races, so does it differ in races widely different in military capacity, the report finds.

"Whereas the most virile of the so-called martial races," the report explains, "provide fine fighting material, other communities in India do not furnish a single man for the regular army."

The commission makes the point that it is essential to the honor of Great Britain in relation to the assurances which have been given that she is sincerely aiming at the attainment of self-government in India that the Indianization of the army should be given every chance.

A talk by Mrs. H. C. Gowan followed. "The Christian Mother in the Home" was the theme of Mrs. Ward of the Douglas Street Baptist Church. Head Noises, Catarrh
Roaring and hissing sounds, discharge, pains, sensitive and tender ears, and catarrh trouble. You will be surprised how quickly Aurine will help you. You may be a chronic long-time sufferer, you may have tried many things without relief, but do not give up hope before you know what Aurine can do for you. Dr. Edward Kolar, M.D., said, "Aurine helped cases I had given up as hopeless. A truly remarkable scientific remedy."

John Meredith of Canada says, "I have suffered from ear trouble for over 15 years. At times I would be stone deaf. I have only used half of your bottle of Aurine and I find it a great relief. All the head noises have gone and I can hear people talking clear. I heard the choir in our church and the organ play for the first time in 15 years. I also heard the minister read the Scripture."

Stop paying high prices for earphones, stop buying expensive treatment and medicine that more than a half-million others have found in Aurine. A few drops in each ear and relief comes instantly. Mr. R. F. Maxwell, a well-known Deputy Sheriff, says, "Just started using my second bottle and am glad to state that I can now hear my watch tick. Today was the first time, this summer, I heard the church bell ring. No matter how stubborn or what your trouble is, you must try Aurine. No risk, no chance, no doubt. Aurine must do the work or cost you nothing. Our Book, 'How to Take Care of the Ears' sent free. Address: AURINE COMPANY, CHICAGO, ILL.

MOSTLY GENERALITIES

IT HAS BEEN APPARENT FOR SOME time that the Conservative party has nothing new to present to the people of Canada for their consideration during the election campaign. The platform Mr. Bennett announced when he opened his speaking tour at Winnipeg last night must be a keen disappointment to those among his supporters who were looking for something besides generalities. While several of his pledges do not even possess the merit of clarity, the opposition leader is specific in his statement that his party will "foster and support a plan for greater empire trade," only if it be "based on mutual advantages."

The Conservative party's attitude towards trade with the rest of the British Empire, and particularly with Great Britain, has undergone no change since Mr. Meighen declared it in the election campaign of 1925 and repeated it in the following year—the contest which resulted in such a decisive defeat of himself and his party's policies. In both those campaigns Mr. Meighen made it clear that he would abolish the British Preference and not restore the concessions which it gives to the exporter in the Motherland until Britain consented to tax her foreign imports so as to give Canadian products a preference in the markets of the United Kingdom. During the recent debate on the Dunning budget in the House of Commons several of Mr. Bennett's supporters reiterated their belief in the Meighen policy. At Winnipeg last night Mr. Bennett left no doubt in the mind of his audience that he subscribes to the same policy. This came as no surprise, of course, because he said in the House of Commons that "to grant trade preferences to another state or empire without founding those preferences on a mutually helpful treaty is unsound business, profitless, and filled with ill-will and misunderstanding."

The King government is opposed to any bargaining with Great Britain in this matter of the preference. Mr. Bennett, however, would insist upon a preference in return, knowing full well that if Great Britain were to impose a tax on her foreign imports, chief among which, of course, are foodstuffs, the cost of the necessities of life would increase accordingly. Hundreds of thousands of families in the Motherland at the present time are finding it difficult enough to make both ends meet without adding to their troubles by increasing the cost of food.

As for the other pledges to which Mr. Bennett committed his party, we shall hope he will explain them in order that it will be possible to discover what they mean. As they stand they mean but little.

MISREPRESENTING US IN THE U.S.

AMONG NEWSPAPER MEN THE NEW York Times is everywhere regarded as one of the best and most accurate newspapers in the world. In such a paper it is surprising indeed to discover a report so utterly distorted and misleading as that which appeared on June 1, from The Times' correspondent in Vancouver, dealing with the liquor situation in British Columbia. This correspondent seriously misled the people of the United States, through The Times' huge body of readers, that British Columbians deeply resent the closing of liquor export houses here on June 11. The people of British Columbia, he says, "are concerned, and indignantly concerned, with an order that will affect community prosperity adversely for no other purpose than to flatter the prohibitionists of the United States into thinking that they have woven their principles, not only into the law of their own country, but into the law of neighboring countries as well. In short, there is indignation in cities like Vancouver, where liquor investments run into the tens of millions, at the thought that a profitable industry must be closed up in indirect obedience to a legal experiment being undertaken by another nation."

Unfortunately, it is not probable that such a misstatement of the real facts can be corrected among all The Times' readers, or among the readers of other newspapers which may reprint it. Fortunately, however, Canadians are on public record in repudiation of the views credited to them in The Times. There will be resentment against the closing of the export houses in the underworld and among criminals who know no nationality, but nowhere else. If there is any question on which the public and the political parties of this country have been unanimous it is on the abolition of liquor warehouses.

Recently, of course, Canada has gone further than that in stamping out the international liquor smuggling traffic by refusing to grant clearances to vessels carrying liquor to the United States, and on this step, too, both parties in Parliament were in agreement. This country has cut itself adrift from the smuggling traffic not, as stated in The Times, "in indirect obedience to a legal experiment being undertaken by another nation," but in obedience to its own free will—a desire to have our hands clean in the matter.

FOILING THE RACKETEER

ONE UNITED STATES COMMENTATOR suggests that a way to foil the racketeer is to refuse to be afraid of him. Two "tough guys" from Detroit dropped down to Cleveland the other day, looking for a little easy money. They looked up a well-to-do merchant, found that he had a six-year-old son, and proceeded to call up the merchant by telephone. Unless he paid them $10,000, they said, they would kidnap his son and bomb his store. This scheme usually works, but this time it did not. Instead of getting scared, the merchant called the police. The two "tough guys" were arrested within twelve hours, and now cells in Ohio's terrible penitentiary are being prepared for them.

The racketeer's method of operation is chiefly bluff. If the bluff is called promptly, it is the racketeer who gets into trouble.

HE BELIEVES IN MIRACLES

IN THE ABSENCE OF ANYTHING really constructive to discuss with the electorate, Conservatives in various parts of the country are making extraordinary statements and indulging in predictions suggestive of whistling to keep up their courage. Mayor Webb of Winnipeg, for instance, declared at Edmonton the other day that the defeat of the present government at Ottawa is the only solution for Canada's unemployment situation.

Mayor Webb's opinion is interesting but far from convincing. Nor is it likely that Mr. Bennett will use it in conjunction with his complaint that Mr. Dunning stole his party's "thunder" when he included countervailing and seasonal duties in his budget to give aid to Canadian producers. In fact it is quite probable Mayor Webb would find it more than a little difficult to explain just what he means by saying the defeat of the King government would immediately result in sending every idle man in Canada to work.

Supposing the King government were to be defeated in the coming elections, what does Winnipeg's mayor think would happen? Let us refer him to Mr. Bennett. One of the first things the Conservative leader would do would be to put an end to the British Preference—tell Great Britain that her goods would have to pay the same duty goods from foreign countries have to pay to get into Canada, that she might continue to enjoy the preference only if she consented to tax her own imports from other countries so as to give Canadian products an advantage. In other words, Mr. Bennett would at once begin to bargain with the British government, in contrast with Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who, in 1897, initiated the British Preference—since extended by the King government—without strings. This is the Liberal policy. Mr. Mackenzie King believes in practical measures in preference to lip service and flag waving.

We get a clearer idea of what the Conservative policy would mean with respect to the employment situation when we consider the effect the abolition of the British Preference would have upon Canadian exports to Great Britain—a vital factor in Canada's trade with the outside world. Were Canada to impose handicaps upon the British exporter, it follows that Britain's purchases from us would dwindle accordingly. The result would be more unemployment.

Trade figures, however, tell the most convincing tale. For the ten years ending March 31 last, Canada sold goods to the United Kingdom to the value of $3,834,500,000, and purchased goods to the value of $1,673,600,000, or a balance of trade in this country's favor of no less than $2,160,900,000. The electorate, of course, is aware that Mr. Bennett and his party are opposed to the trade treaties which the King government has negotiated with other parts of the British Empire. They attacked the Australian treaty, the extension of the provisions of that treaty to New Zealand; they attacked the treaty which this Dominion negotiated with the British West Indies.

Let us look at our trade with these parts of the British Empire for the last two fiscal years. Our sales amounted in value to $81,521,185, and our purchases to $40,033,748, or a balance of trade in Canada's favor for these two years of the substantial sum of $41,507,437.

Does the Mayor of Winnipeg seriously suggest that the abolition of the British Preference, the abrogation of the various treaties with other parts of the British Empire, would produce a solution for an employment problem which is world-wide—affecting Canada only in a minor degree?

The truth of the matter is, Mr. Webb, like all of his Conservative friends, realizes that the Dunning budget safeguards the best interests of Canada, and opens the way to a very considerable increase in trade with the rest of the empire, particularly with Great Britain. This is disconcerting to the opposition.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

PREFERENCE FOR BRITAIN
The Toronto Star

The ridiculous suggestion is made by critics of the government that Canada's new British Empire budget represents Washington dictation. But Washington itself is under no such delusion. The United States department of Commerce, in an official analysis of the measure, declares that instead of being a benefit to the United States, "American trade aggregating between $175,000,000 and $225,000,000 is affected, adversely in most instances." As Canada's total imports from the United States are less than $850,000,000, the figures mentioned in the Washington announcement are very significant.

TRADE WITH NEW ZEALAND
The Saskatoon Star-Phoenix

In 1928 New Zealand's exports to Canada were $29,383,875, and imports from Canada were $4,787,181. For every dollar Canadians spent on New Zealand butter and other goods from that country, the New Zealanders spent $1.56 in Canada. One of the notable features of the Dunning budget is the proposal to increase the duty on New Zealand butter from one cent to four cents a pound. This is not likely to help Canadian dairy farmers in the long run, but Mr. Dunning has yielded to complaints from butter makers about New Zealand's competition. It will be interesting to know how the New Zealanders react.

MR. BENNETT AND THE EMPIRE
The Regina Leader-Post

"If a dollar goes to the West Indies that should go to a Canadian, it is no better than if the money went to the United States," Mr. Bennett says. It seems that so far as Mr. Bennett is concerned not only is there nothing in Empire trade at all, but sister British countries are equally nothing to us. If the Conservatives should be returned to power in the coming election Mr. Bennett would be the chief Canadian representative at the Liberal conference of next fall. The question may fairly be asked, how could Canada send to this conference such a representative as Mr. Bennett and why should a man, entertaining such views as Mr. Bennett's, desire to attend such a conference?

THE LIBERAL TARIFF
The Toronto Star

On all such items as the case, without injury to her own interests, abolish taxation against goods entering the Dominion from British countries, Canada abolishes the tariff tax. This policy, in the opinion of the present government of Canada, will work for the benefit of the Canadian people and British people elsewhere. It will increase trading back and forth between Canada and the rest of the empire, and this increased trading will benefit all concerned.

A THOUGHT

Let brotherly love continue.—St. Timothy xiii 1.
A brother is a friend given by nature.—J. B. Legouve.

Loose Ends

A kind friend warns this column against its vice—another one declares cruelty to flying ants—and Mr. Hoover tries to act with a de-capitalized salmon.

By H. B. W.

EVIDENTLY IN the belief that the private excesses of this column equal its public ones, a kind friend has just sent me a tract on the evils of tobacco. This I have read carefully and there is one idea in it so cogent that I feel I must pass it along to other people so that they, too, may see the horror of their ways. After various other arguments to prove the dangers of tobacco, this tract offers a final grim warning to smokers. It declares that cannibals will not eat the flesh of men who have been habitual users of tobacco. It is good to know that while there is yet time, but somehow it does not inspire one to burn one's pipes. Indeed, unless you are anxious to be eaten by cannibals, you will smoke harder than ever. The tobacco interests ought to capitalize this idea and advise the public that their only sure way of avoiding the soup pot is to get how it would get on with cannibals. But as a matter of fact the smoking habit is so general nowadays that I fear the poor cannibals must be having a hard time to eat at all. In the end they will have to accept tobacco in their diet as we have had to do in our women. And I don't know which is worse.

A LITTLE GROUP of excellent people, who interest themselves in the splendid cause of protecting dumb creatures, has lately sent a spokesman to this column to insist that certain remarks contained herein, not long ago, might affect this cause adversely. The reason for alarm was that this column, in chronicling certain innocent goings-on out our way, recorded that the little girl from next door removed the wings from a flying ant and so how it would get on with them. This, it was felt, might inspire other children to do the same thing with great damage to the flying ant species. I am sorry for this, but I couldn't suppress the true facts. A newspaper must reflect all sides of life and cannot hide the unpleasant side, even though it includes the maiming of flying ants. But if our readers are dropping their wings right and left anyway, some of them on my typewriter, others in my glass of grape juice. They didn't seem to want them and were quite happy to wait off on foot. The act of the little girl from next door, in removing the wings of one of them, was thus a move of good friends to do the job itself. True, the record of it in so prominent a place might have a disastrous effect by causing young people to pull the wings off other creatures who need them. But then, in the same way it can be shown that a newspaper, in recording a burglary, might cause young people to become burglars, and in reporting political speeches might inspire them to go into politics. It is difficult to draw the line, and I can only say that I did not intend in any way to advocate pulling wings from flying ants. I gave it up myself years ago. I shall speak to the little girl next door firmly, but at this is one of the least of her misdeeds. I have little hope of achieving a reform.

THE OTHER day President Hoover made a ruling which profoundly reflects the development of our civilization. He refused to allow newspaper correspondents to watch him while he was being pictured by a movie camera because, he said, he regarded his actions before the camera as "acting." An incident which occurred soon after this ruling was promulgated demonstrated just what the president meant. To understand it you must know the use of an ancient and honorable custom, the first fish of the season, caught in the Bangor, Maine, salmon pools must be given to the chief executive of the nation. This year an eleven-pound grilse was sent to the White House for presentation to the President. By a terrible mistake, it resided in the kitchen where a chef hacked off its head and tail and was about to cook it for the President's dinner when Congressman Snow, of Maine, discovered, by the merest chance what devilry was afoot. A contemporary account says that Congressman Snow, "seizing the fish, hastily stretched its head back on a needle and thread, wrapped it in talcum and in a piece of paper hurried out to the White House posing ground and presented the piscatorial patchwork to the President before a battery of cameras." No wonder, then, that the President considers these more distasteful features of his job as "acting" rather than the ordinary business of government.

IT IS TO be hoped that other public men will follow this example and prepare themselves for the demands of modern democracy by learning, with Mr. Hoover, to act. Up to the present I have seen no evidence that any are doing so. Or if the public men whom I have seen pictured on the screen are acting, then I shudder to think what they would be like if they behaved naturally. Usually they wear a ferocious frown and talk like a child reciting a nursery rhyme, or else they single footily in a school girl, or jump about erratically as if someone were injecting a needle into them from behind. Mr. Lloyd George, who has always had a magnificent sense of the dramatic, does well enough before the camera, but as speeches for such purposes must be memorized beforehand, and he is essentially an extemporaneous orator, they seem to fall rather flat. Mr. Baldwin eyes the camera with a look of comic alarm most de-thoughtful to behold, then glances down at his notes and then up at the audience with such a pitiable expression of despair that you wish you could slap him on the back and say, "Cheer up, old man, it's only acting, you know." And President Hoover himself, for all his elaborate precautions and preparation, is about as inspiring before the talking camera as a sputtering pudding. What we undoubtedly need are public men who can act, and if the present popularity of the talking periodists, politicians may yet be chosen by that qualification alone.

MME. LUPESCU LEAVES HOME TO FOLLOW CAROL

Companion of New King of Roumania Disturbed at His Departure

Bellevue, France, June 10.—Mme. Lupescu, tall-haired companion of Carol, new King of Roumania, left the chateau Le Bellevue for an unknown destination Wednesday, twenty-four hours after the departure of Carol. She was unaware of Carol's proposed return to Roumania until he failed to return to the chateau for dinner Tuesday evening. She has not been here since her departure.

Such is the information gathered from servants of the chateau and the owner of a garage who prepared Mme. Lupescu's car for her departure. Apparently the only other person in the village who had an intimation of impending events was a druggist who prepared a prescription for her.

According to the garage proprietor, she seemed distraught when she left. She previously had called him on the telephone and asked him to have Carol's car ready for a long trip by Tuesday noon. The couple called at the post office Tuesday and received a telegram. Both left soon afterward at a great speed.

That evening, when Carol failed to return for dinner, Mme. Lupescu ordered her car made ready. The garage man said she seemed anxious to catch up with Carol.

Attendants at the chateau were given instructions to maintain the strictest silence. Even to-day two were stationed at the gates, allowing no one to enter.

It was the belief that Mme. Lupescu had gone to Switzerland, although there was no record of her purpose, as no visa is required to enter Switzerland.

Chapter Aiding Red Cross Work in Peace River

Mrs. Robert D. Harvey, the regent, presided at the meeting of H.M.S. Resolution Chapter, I.O.D.E. last evening at the home of Mrs. R. C. Parrow, Davis Street. A letter was read from Mrs. Sydney Oliver, who attended the National Chapter meeting in Montreal.

The sum of $5.50 was donated towards the Provincial Chapter entertainment fund. The Canadian Geographic Magazine was sent to two members, Miss Roberts, of Grand Haven, Peace River district, and Miss Brown, of Peace Coulee. The sum of $10 had been donated towards the education of a Victoria boy, the son of an ex-soldier. It was reported, and the gratifying sum of $100 had been cleared as result of the recent Indian cabaret held at Hamsterley Lake.

It was announced that sewing meetings will be continued during the summer months.

It was decided that a fund should be started towards the purchase of a car for Mrs. Roberts, nurse at Grand Haven, Peace River outpost hospital, whose difficulties in covering the wide distances in connection with her work were told in a letter from her which was read to the members.

The sum of $25 was voted as a nucleus of the fund. A cot, donated by Mrs. Corby, will be sent to Miss Roberts, together with a donation of a layette, made by the members.

Miss Wynne Shaw was welcomed as a new member of the chapter. A letter was read from the captain of H.M.S. Resolution at Gibraltar, thanking the chapter for the I.O.D.E. calendar, and asking for a report of Captain George Vancouver's ship the Resolution.

DAUGHTER OF TOM MIX ELOPES

Sheriff Arrives Too Late to Stop Marriage to Screen Actor

Yuma, Ariz., June 10.—Ruth Jane Mix, young daughter of Tom Mix, film cowboy star, was married to Douglas Gilmore, screen actor, here yesterday, in spite of efforts of her father to stop the ceremony.

The young couple arrived here early yesterday, obtained a marriage license and were married by Justice of the Peace Earl Freeman forty minutes before Sheriff J. C. Hunter, Yuma county, had received a request from Mix's Los Angeles representative to halt their plans.

The request was telephoned by A. H. Michael, Marlin, Mix's attorney, who said Miss Mix had disappeared from her home about midnight, and her father believed she had eloped with Gilmore. Marlin said Mix had told him the girl was only seventeen years old, a year too young to be married without her parents' consent in California, but a year above the legal limit in Arizona.

Sheriff Hunter found the couple at a hotel. The bride assured the sheriff she was eighteen, the age given at the marriage license bureau. Gilmore told the sheriff he was too late, and produced evidence the ceremony was completed.

Later in the day the bride and bridegroom cancelled reservations at the hotel, where they expected to stay and departed, saying the publicity given the marriage by the sheriff's visit was "too much." They said they were going back to Beverly Hills, where Gilmore has a home.

The simple process of bathing baby which takes a half hour or more daily can be a period of stress or a happy one. One mother was wise enough to try new ways of bathing when she found the one she had adopted was causing a daily storm. Her description of the baby's delight at bath time demonstrates that it is much easier to handle a happy baby than one who stiffens like a board and fills the air with indignant screams. This is her tale:

Mrs. W. H. S. says: "I am a daily reader of your department and find your advice very good. Perhaps you would like to hear how I managed to prevent our four-month-old baby from kicking and screaming in her bath so that how she laughs delightedly when she sees the tub being filled."

When we find a mother using this attitude toward a child, "Now you're going to do as I say or I'll know the reason why. I'm the boss," we need bear no more to know that conflict rages hot and heavy in that household over every trifle. Naturally we do not believe that a baby should dictate to his parents. There is always that peaceful and successful middle path which gets done what must be done and yet prevents the baby's feelings that he is being hauled, mauled, pushed and pounded into attitudes and actions toward which he is at the moment antagonistic.

ONE OF VICTORIA'S BEAUTIFUL HOMES

"Laguannan," Rippon Road, The Uplands, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, is one of the older residences in this beautiful district. Boston ivy covers the front of the house and veranda with green in spring and summer and with a riot of color, ranging from yellow to crimson, in the autumn. The rock garden is a colorful and attractive feature of the sheltered grounds.

enough of the beverage to serve fifteen people.
One quart of salad will serve ten persons.
One pint of sandwich filling will fill twenty-four sandwiches.
Two-thirds cup creamed butter will spread twenty-four sandwiches.
One loaf of sandwich bread will make twenty-four sandwiches.
One four-pound chicken yields about three cups diced meat.
One pound cold boiled ham will serve six to eight persons.
One pound salted nuts will serve twenty persons.

The infinite variety often found on a picnic table makes it necessary for the servings to be very small indeed if every article is "tasted." The foregoing suggestions were made with a balanced meal in mind. When baked beans, potato salad, cold boiled ham, meat loaf, meat sandwiches, cheese sandwiches, pie, cake and cookies are all in evidence, some sources, or they were supposedly helpless in a world that is none too interested in nor sympathetic with the greenhorn.

Under such circumstances, any of several things invariably happened. Faced with a new freedom, they either went to pieces, mistaking liberty for license; or they were too prone to take suggestion, or suggestion from wrong sources; or they were supposedly helpless in a world that is none too interested in nor sympathetic with the greenhorn.

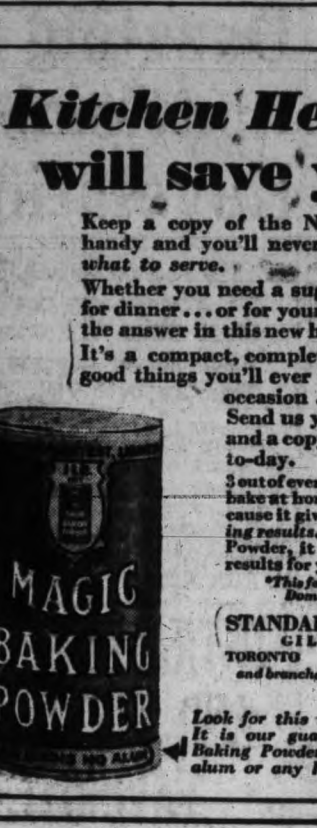

Then began the new order of things. People realized that if their children were to have half a chance later on that home would have to be the school in which they should get their experience. Independence and selection and the right to exercise their own judgment they should have.

But like most reforms it went to extremes. Faddism took the place of common sense and that terrible word "self-expression" became the vogue. The term was still a perfectly satisfactory name, but its misuse has made it almost anathema to those who saw it burlesqued.

COVERS A MULTITUDE OF SINS
Admiring relatives stood round and beamed when Buddy turned his plate of mashed potatoes upside down on the head, and like the story of "Little Willie" who drowned his sister, remarked, "Ain't he cute!" Buddy was allowed to "express" himself in any manner he chose, from eating up all the peanuts to sneezing cold cream all over the best rug.

Well—that, too, dug its own grave. Fatuous parents in sheer self-defense saw that it wouldn't do at all. Besides, Buddy was becoming an outlaw, and an outlaw is no better off concerning either himself or society for his parents to tell him before he cast a shadow.

Now things are adjusting themselves. Obedience we must have. First, because in matters concerning health, protection, clothes, food, sleeping hours and kindly conduct, children must have the supervision of mature more experienced than their own. Second, because the contented adult who fits into the social picture knows that it is not his world alone but a world of man's evolving full of living-creatures that he must recognize, and above all things we want the child to grow into a happy, contented adult.

BREMERTON AND TACOMA AERIES WIN IN PARADE

Take First and Second Places in Men's and Women's Section of Competition

Bremerton and Tacoma aeries gained major honors in the big street parade staged by the convention delegates of the British Columbia and Washington Eagles from the corner of Cook and Yates Streets to the Crystal Garden yesterday evening. The former took first honors in the men's division with 430 points out of a possible 500, and second in the women's auxiliary section with 245 out of 300. Tacoma won the women's laurels with 247 points and came second in the men's with 406.

Hundreds of Victorians lined the streets to see the colorful uniforms and smart drill squads of visitors as they paraded with their banners and bands through the city. Led by the state aerie officials, the procession extended for blocks along the downtown streets.

MARCHED PROUDLY
A drizzling rain drove some of the less substantially clothed squads from the event, but the majority marched proudly forward with their bodies erect and file crops shivering forth marching tunes.

Seattle, the largest unit in the event, with its members dressed in white shoes and trousers and blue coats with naval hats, followed the grand aerie representatives with its seventy-four piece band.

Comic sections were greeted with much enthusiasm by the spectators who were delighted, particularly with the antics of the Tacoma quartette. Although the men cut quite striking figures in the multi-colored uniforms, they were by no means up to the standard of the women on the march. The latter in their red, white and blue costumes presented a striking spectacle.

RESULTS OF CONTESTS
Results of the judging follow:
Men—Bremerton 430, Tacoma 406, Snohomish 390, Bellingham 380, Everett 360, Seattle 350, Renton 310, Yakima 300, Tenino 275.
Women's auxiliaries—Tacoma 247, Bremerton 245, Everett 230, Bellingham 210, Snohomish 195, Tenino 190, Renton 190, Yakima 155, Seattle 135, Kelso 135.

Quartermaster-Sergeant A. Youngman, Sgt.-Inspector M. F. Woodhouse, Sgt.-Inspector A. A. Smith, all of the Princesses, judged the marching, while Bandmaster F. Cawsey, of Victoria Aerie No. 12, judged the music.

WOMEN PROTEST SENTENCING OF "MERE BABIES"

After considerable discussion it was unanimously moved that:
"The Local Council of Women again reiterate its appeal for the establishment in Victoria of a properly constituted juvenile court, with fully-trained officials, and an adequate detention home, and that the personnel of the juvenile court be distinct from that of the police court."

Y. Giesemer, of the Y.M.C.A. gave a brief address outlining the plans for the supervision of playgrounds in the city during the school holidays in July and August, and appealing for support in the community-wide enterprise. The money raised, said the speaker, would be used entirely for the purchase of equipment suitable for group games and for the provision of trained supervisors, and not one cent would accrue to the Y.M.C.A. As a result of his appeal, members of the council took up a collection, which will be handed over to the committee in charge of the project.

PROVINCIAL MEETING
Mrs. W. McLean, secretary, who represented the council at the recent provincial meeting, gave a most interesting and comprehensive report of the findings of the gathering.

In answer to an invitation from the National Council to send a delegate to the meeting at Niagara Falls in October, the council will endeavor to find a representative, or should direct representation be impossible, to carry the council's vote. Delegates will also attend the next provincial meeting at Nanaimo, if possible, in response to a letter of invitation from Mrs. Reynolds, the Nanaimo president.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS
Mrs. Llewellyn gave an interesting report of the League of Nations and its particular reference to the Naval Disarmament Conference and its findings.

Mrs. J. L. Watson, convenor of the committee on parks and playgrounds, told of the work being done in the way of supervision at several of the city parks during the coming school holidays.

The council moved a standing vote of sympathy to the family of the late Miss Marist, and also moved that a letter of condolence be sent to Mrs. Landsbury on her recent bereavement, which was chosen as Victoria's "best citizen."

RANGERS ATTEND BANQUET GIVEN BY BURNS CLUB

Lieut.-Governor and Miss Mackenzie Visit Empress to Honor Visiting Footballers

In the presence of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Miss Mackenzie, the Burns Club paid tribute to the Glasgow Rangers, at a banquet last night in the main ballroom of the Empress Hotel.

Seated at the main table in addition to His Honor and Miss Mackenzie, were various officials of local football associations and of the Glasgow Rangers. At the lower tables were members of the victorious and vanquished teams, and of the Burns Club. In all there was an attendance of well over a hundred.

The first after-dinner speaker was John Hsieh, President of the Burns Club. Mr. Hsieh spoke of the pride Victorians would feel through the visit of such a distinguished football team as the Rangers. He hoped that the visit would promote more than the mere playing of football—that it would foster better understanding and encourage British ideals.

The Lieutenant-Governor, in proposing a toast to the Rangers, said that it was a fine thing for the Scottish players to see the potentialities of the Empire. As a Scotsman, he himself knew Canada, her hospitality, and her possibilities as a helper of the Mother Land. "Before many of you have reached the venerable age to which I have attained," he said, "Canada will have as many people as has the Old Country."

Big Crowd at Crystal Garden; Lucky Tickets Announced in Tombola

Hundreds of Eagles joined with citizens of Victoria in a monster carnival at the Crystal Garden yesterday evening for water sports and a dance.

Following the gala, which was arranged by the Victoria Y.M.C.A. and Crystal Garden swimming clubs, the gathering proceeded to the south ballroom, where dance music was played by Charlie Hunt's orchestra.

During the evening, the Tacoma comic quartette entertained at the north ballroom with a varied programme of instrumental, dancing and vocal novelties.

At 1:45 o'clock, the tombola draw was made as follows: First prize, No. 1,128; second prize, No. 568; third prize, No. 3,345; fourth prize, No. 746; fifth prize, No. 1,502, and sixth prize, No. 1,280.

TOLMIE VISITS FRUIT DISTRICT

Compares Okanagan Water Supply With That of Washington

Need of an ample water supply for the Okanagan Valley was stressed by Premier Tolmie yesterday on his return from an automobile tour of British Columbia and Washington. Remarking that Washington fruitgrowers were favored with a good supply of water, Premier Tolmie said a comparison emphasized the needs of the Okanagan. Attention must be given he said to conserving the supply available and discovering new sources of supply. He believed the appointment of F. G. de Wolfe to work out a scheme under which Okanagan farmers will pay for water according to their ability to pay will prove of benefit in solving irrigation problems of the valley.

Mr. John Public Shows Interest In Thursday's Scrap

Madison Square Garden Officials Predict Gate Will Pass $700,000 Mark; Sharkey and Schmeling Both Wind Up Their Training To-day; Guessing Contest Takes Place As To Selection of Referee; Little Money Being Wagered

Canadian Press

New York, June 10.—Jack Sharkey's heavyweight championship battle with Max Schmeling on Thursday night will not draw a $1,000,000 gate but there are indications it will pass the $600,000 total that has been predicted for it.

Mr. John Public is showing unmistakable signs of getting excited about the whole business. The boys on the streets are talking about it, arguments as to the respective merits of a left hook and a right cross are common and that's what made Jack Dempsey's various title battles draw millions.

A steady rain, a drab and colorless sky, could not prevent customers from appearing in droves at Madison Square Garden box office yesterday to do more and more less choice seats for the fray at Yankee Stadium.

At the end of the day the Garden announced the offers of the milk fund, sponsors of the show had been swelled by $40,000. Recalling that $50,000 had been taken in on Friday and Saturday, the Garden was not slow to estimate that the total gate would pass $700,000.

Just to make the day one of unalloyed bliss for the promoters, Sharkey and Schmeling both put on great workouts at their training quarters in Orangeburg and Endicott, N.Y. The boys who will do the actual work have one more day of training ahead of them.

They will rest Wednesday and come to New York in time for weighing in at the Garden at 2 p.m. Thursday. Sharkey will come by motor from Orangeburg and Endicott by train. The latter had planned to come by air but definitely postponed this plan because of unfavorable weather conditions.

A GUESSING CONTEST
Principal interest here turned on the question of a referee. Neither Sharkey nor Schmeling has offered objection to the New York State Athletic Commission's plan to select the third man in the ring, just before the fifteen-round title fight begins. A guessing contest among the expert commentators, Ed Forbes, Jim Crowley and Ed McFarland as the most likely candidates. There were indications that Lou Magliola, the "four foot four" contest between Sharkey and Phil Scott at Miami, has been ruled out of consideration.

The "latest" betting odds favored Sharkey 9 to 5. Odds of 1 to 3 have been offered against Sharkey scoring a knockout and 1 to 2 against Schmeling accomplishing the feat. Casting temporary license on the odds, the scarcity of wagers, some experts were of the opinion that supporters of Schmeling are waiting for longer odds before putting down their bets.

The radio details of the match will be broadcast through a national hook-up by the National Broadcasting Company with Graham McNamee the probable choice for duty at the microphone.

The Athletic Commission was to decide today to-day the status of Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager of choice. Jacobs has been under suspension here for months but the general expectation was that he would be granted a license in time to handle Schmeling in his corner the night of the fight.

NUMB'S RECORD
To the Sports Editor:—In Monday's issue of The Times on the sport page, a dispatch dated London, June 9, stated that Pavo Nurmi, the Finnish runner, broke the six-mile running record in 30 min. 34.5 sec. at London. This record is an impossibility, as the mile record is over four minutes. Consequently six miles could not be run in 30 minutes. There is an error somewhere.

A. H. GAIGER.
Owing to a typographical error Nurmi's new time should have read 29 min. 36.5 sec. and not 30 min. 36.5 sec.—Sports Editor.

Giving the most brilliant exhibition of football ever witnessed in Victoria, Glasgow Rangers, champions of the Scottish League First Division and holders of the Scottish Cup, defeated an eleven of Victoria All-Stars at the Royal Athletic Park yesterday evening by a score of 8-1. The match played in a steady drizzle drew a gate of about 2,000. Weather conditions spoiled the game somewhat the pitch being exceptionally treacherous.

AUSTRALIA AND JAPAN FAVORITES

Expect to Reach Final Round in European Zone of Davis Cup Tennis

Finalists to Meet United States For Right to Challenge Frenchmen

Davis Cup tennis play in the European zone has reached the semi-final round with Japan, Australia, Italy and Czechoslovakia in the fight.

Semi-final round pairings put Australia against Italy and Japan against Czechoslovakia. The survivors will meet in the zone final, the winner of which will play the United States, American zone champions, for the right to challenge France, cup holder for the last three years.

On the basis of their play in the third round, Australia and Japan were heavy favorites to reach the final round. Japan, boasting a strong team, headed by Takeichi Harada, should have little trouble with Czechoslovakia.

The Glants, winning seven straight games, by far the best record in either league, his safety 97 times for first place. Fifteen of the Cub batters were home runs. Chicago came in second for the best average in the 81 runs. The Phillies scored 47 times for winning five games and losing two, while Philadelphia tied with Brooklyn for third with four victories and two defeats.

Cleveland led the American League at four victories and one defeat, more through its defensive efforts. The Indians topped the circuit with 41 runs and 71 hits and held their opponents to 21 tallies.

The Chicago White Sox had the second best record in games for the week, winning three and losing one and the Philadelphia Athletics were third at four and two. The New York Yankees led the league's home run hitters with seven, a mark topped by four National League clubs.

The two National League leaders also had fine defensive records. New York's opponents tallied 31 runs against 65 and the Cubs permitted only 33 runs to score while they were making 81.

The American League, however, far outshone its rival in fielding. The Philadelphia Athletics and New York Yankees each got through the week with American League campaign with only two errors, and only one club, the Boston Red Sox, who committed twelve, had more than six errors for the week.

Brussels, June 10.—Henri Cochet, recognized personally as the world's best tennis player, was defeated in the final of the Belgian championship by his French countryman, Jean Borotra. The scores were 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 4-6, 8-6. Borotra was exhausted and nearly collapsed at the end of the match.

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE half of baseball's Big Six was idle yesterday, but the American circuit members failed to take advantage of the opportunity to improve their standing. Sam Rice and Al Simmons collected one hit each, while Babe Ruth retired from the game after failing to connect the first two times at the plate. Ruth's hitless day again sent him into last place alone after sojourning with another in that position for twenty-four hours.

Benny Bass Is Favorite Over Eddie Anderson

Milwaukee, Wis., June 10.—Benny Bass, Philadelphia, who twice has defeated successfully his junior lightweight boxing title, will fight another championship bout to-night with Corbett Anderson, Chicago, his opponent.

Discounting the fact that Anderson knocked Bass down twice when they fought here last February, despite Anderson's victory over Joey Bangor two months ago, and disregarding Anderson's decision over Bruce Flowers, Milwaukee, fight fans predict an easy win for the easterner.

Willie Kamm Has Been Benched By Chicago White Sox

Chicago, June 10.—William Kamm, who led American League third basemen in fielding in 1929 and 1928, has been benched by Manager Donie Bush of the White Sox. Kamm has failed to get started this season, and is included in a wholesale shift which sent Irving Jeffries to third base, Smokey Joe to right field and Johnny Wadd to centre, in an effort to add punch to the Sox attack.

CHANGING TEAM

In an effort to gain more effective men Phillips and Mulcahy the two outside men on the Victoria team moved into the inside positions and the change made a little difference although the local forwards were helpless against the fine work of the Rangers' halves and backs. Morton made 12-1 with a low shot that struck one of the Victoria players and continued into the net. The final goal of the match came from the boot of Marshall who beat Parquhar with a long shot that packed plenty of sizzle to it.

Albert Hewison refereed. The teams were as follows:
Glasgow Rangers—T. Hamilton; J. Buchanan; R. Hamilton; R. McDonald; J. Simpson; G. Brown; A. Morton; J. Marshall; J. Smith; R. McPhail and W. Nicholson.

Victoria—Parquhar; Margison, Tupperman; McBay, Peden, Smith; Phillips; Peers; John Watt; Robinson and Mulcahy.

ASSOCIATION TEAM WINS IN EAGLES' GALA

Y.M.C.A. Chalks Up Five Straight Victories in Exhibition Meet at Garden

Denny Walker Outstanding in Boys' Section; E. Peden Stars in Girls' Races

In a programme of close events, including fifty yard sprints for men and women, a 200-yard men's relay, a diving competition and ladies' breast stroke race, swimmers from the Y.M.C.A. made a clean sweep of first honors in the Eagles' gala at the Crystal Garden yesterday evening.

Outstanding on the programme was the showing of Denny Walker, young Y.M.C.A. Junior, who kicked the spray in the faces of the best swimmers in the pool in a fraction of a second.

The same lad demonstrated his speed in the relay race and materially assisted his team to gain a victory under twenty-seven seconds.

Frank Gilbert of the C.G.S.C. finished second in the fifty, while Dick Healy, of the "Y," was third.

In the women's fifty yard freestyle, Eleanor Peden, also of the Y.M.C.A., swam to an easy victory over M. McRae and Winnie Pollard, the "Y" representative took the lead at the start and finished well in front.

With Denny Walker swimming a fast length, his team, composed of R. Healy, G. Parrot and J. Peden, had a comparatively easy time in winning the relay race.

The three-metre board diving honours went to Art Stott, with Allan Stewart of the "Y," taking second place and Jack Bryden of the Crystal Garden, finishing a close third.

The boys executed several difficult dives and won high commendation for their performances.

Eleanor Peden, winner of the women's fifty, came to the front again in the ladies' breast stroke event with a clear cut victory over Betty Pollard. May Peden was third.

The comedy stunt "Learning to Swim" by Archie McKinnon and Colin McPadden of the "Y," drew roars of laughter from the gathering and greatly added to the fun of the gala.

Through an oversight prizes for the different events were not presented at the gala, but will be distributed to the winners at the Crystal Garden on Wednesday evening.

Ace Hudkins Will Again Be Managed By His Brothers

Los Angeles, June 10.—The manager of Ace Hudkins, Lincoln, Nebraska, middleweight, was taken over again yesterday by his brothers, Clyde and Art.

Ace fought his way through the lightweight, welterweight and middleweight divisions to the position as title contender under his brothers. He was sold last fall to Tom Kennedy, Hollywood film villain, for a sum said to have been $40,000. Since that time he lost three of his four fights by decisions.

The brothers announced the Nebraska wildcat will start a campaign in hope of getting another shot at Mickey Walker's middleweight title. They refused to reveal terms under which Ace returned to their hands.

Golf Stars of Pacific Northwest Will Seek Three Titles

Victoria Will Be Well Represented In P.N.W. Tourneys

Open, Amateur and Women's Championships Will Be At Stake In Monster Programme of Pacific Northwest Golf Association Starting at Vancouver on Friday; Four Local Pros Enter Open Event; Bob Morrison To Head Local Contingent of Amateurs; Neil Christian and Frank Dolp To Defend Titles.

The smartest clubswingers of British Columbia, Washington and Oregon are packing their grips for the annual three-day battle of the Pacific Northwest Golf Association at Vancouver from Friday until the following Monday week. With the open, amateur and women's championships at stake, the competing fields will include the best players in the Pacific Northwest.

The professionals and a few of the outstanding amateurs will start the show off at the Shaughnessy Heights course on Friday, when they play the first thirty-six holes of the seventy-two hole two-day stroke tournament to decide who will succeed Neil Christian of the Waverley Country Club, Portland, as open champion. However, Christian is an outstanding favorite to win. It was over the Shaughnessy Heights course that he won his first Pacific Northwest open title in 1924.

LOCAL PROS GOING
Victoria will be well represented in the open event as the four local pros, Phil Taylor, Alex. Marling, Walter Gravin and Freddy Burns, have signified their intention of competing. Others who will no doubt give Christian plenty of opposition will be Frank Rodia, champion of Washington State; Walter Pursey, a former Pacific Northwest champion, and present holder of the Washington State professional crown; Johnny Jones, Jimmy Johnston, Bert Wilde, Mel Smith and Dave Black.

DOLP ON DECK
Frank Dolp of Portland will defend the amateur championship against a field that will rate well alongside those of the past. Dolp's young fellow-townsmen, Don Mos, will be among the missing, as he is over in England tuning up his clubs preparatory to the start of the British open.

There is a possibility chance that Dr. O. P. Willing, former champion, will be in the field. Willing arrived in New York a couple of days ago on his return from the Walker Cup matches and the British amateur. He may feel like taking another whirl at the title he first won in Vancouver six years ago. The rest of the Portland regulars, Rude Wihlen, Russ Smith, Vincent

Bobby Jones On Golf

I believe most everyone will agree that the source of the greatest trouble in golf, not only for good golfers but poor golfers, is tension. This idea has been advanced many times before, of course. The next step is to find some method or methods that will help to relieve tension as much as possible. I think one mistake the average golfer makes along this line comes from trying to keep his swing too compact. He has the idea that this will help him control the head of the club, but about all it does is to make him tighten up and to bring about much more tension than would exist otherwise.

I have seen many fine golfers attempting to illustrate what they thought their swings were for pictures or otherwise, stop well before their backswings were completed, when it so happened that in actually hitting the ball they let the clubhead dip a foot or so below the horizontal. What the golf swing needs is all the freedom it can get with as few restrictions as it is possible to make. Don't be afraid to let the swing take its natural course.

ILL-FOUNDED DANGERS
I remember reading shortly after the championship at Pebble Beach the comment of some observer who wrote that, after watching a considerable number of the players there, notably Cyril Tolley, he was convinced that much of the talk of the dangers from over-swinging was ill-founded. He pointed out that the majority of players when they let out for a big shot, as a rule allowed the club to drop below the horizontal at the top of the backswing in spite of the fact that we are usually cautioned that to do this invites trouble and frequently results in disaster. It is something of a satisfaction to me that at least one observer has been so impressed.

It seems to me that there has been a tendency to overemphasize this matter of compactness, or at any rate, that a great many golfers are inclined to go too far in striving for what they believe to be compactness. This is especially true in the detail of curbing the swing stroke. Many people have come to believe that a short backswing, by eliminating some of the body turn, simplifies the stroke to such an extent that grave errors will be easily avoided. I have always held the contrary view, and am convinced that a great many more shots are spoiled by a swing that is too short than by one that is too long; and this applies in the use of every club from the driver down to the putter.

The one quality which a golf swing must have is smoothness. The acceleration from the top must be gradual and the motion must be unhurried and free from any sudden or jerky movements. And in order to accomplish it in this manner, the clubhead must have plenty of time to gather its speed before it reaches the ball. It is apparent that the longer the arc through which the club travels the less need there is for an abnormal expenditure of energy at any one particular moment. The long path affords plenty of space for building up velocity from the zero point at the top to a

Cleveland Putting On Great Spurt and Threatens Senators

Washington Clinging To Second Place In American League By Bare Half Game Over Indians, Who Scored 5-4 Victory Over Senators; Philadelphia Sets Burning Pace To Hold Three-game Lead; Yankees and Boston Win Only Other Games Played.

Washington Senators are discovering that it takes more than April and May winning streaks to keep in the midst of the American League fight. The Senators are clinging tenaciously to second place, but every day sees the Indians creeping closer.

To-day Cleveland is only a half game away, while out in front, setting a burning pace, are the Philadelphia Athletics with a three-game lead. Indians took a 5-4 victory over the Senators yesterday.

Taking advantage of the Senators' defeat, the Athletics edged farther up by eking out a victory over the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 2. Big Bob Weiland held the champions at bay for eight innings, but in the ninth they bunched two of their six hits with a base on balls and a sacrifice fly to score what proved to be the tying and winning runs.

Chad Kinsay turned in a brilliant bit of relief hurling at St. Louis, by holding the New York Yankees to five hits in six innings, but failed to stop them from defeating the Browns 5 to 3. In the only other game played in the major leagues, the Boston Red Sox scored out Detroit 7 to 6, by reason of a five-run rally in the seventh.

All of the National League games were postponed either because of rain or wet grounds.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Cleveland, June 10.—Cleveland scored its second straight one-run comeback victory over Washington here yesterday, 5 to 4. B. H. E. Washington 4 3 3 Cleveland 5 7 1 Batteries — Marberry, Braxton and Spencer; Miller and L. Sewell, Mayatt.

WIN IN NINTH
Chicago, June 9.—The Athletics came from behind in the ninth inning to defeat the White Sox, 3 to 2 yesterday. Bob Weiland held the champions to four scattered hits in the first eight innings, but weakened in the ninth and was relieved by McKain. Walberg and Quinn divided the mound work for the Athletics.

RED SOX WIN
Detroit, June 10.—A five-run rally in the seventh inning gave the Boston Red Sox a 7 to 6 victory over Detroit yesterday. B. H. E. Boston 7 10 2 Detroit 6 9 2 Batteries — Gaston and Berry; Wyatt, Sullivan, Hoggset and Hargrave.

BROWNS GO DOWN
St. Louis, June 10.—Chad Kinsay held the Yankees to five hits in the last six innings, but New York defeated the Browns 5 to 3. The Yankees scored seven of their runs in the first three innings. B. H. E. New York 5 13 1 St. Louis 3 10 1 Batteries — Ruffing, Johnson and Dickey; Crowder, Kinsey and Manion, Ferrel and Hudlin.

Hafey Is Fourth Of Cardinals To Be Out of Game

St. Louis, June 10.—Manager Gabby Street of the Cardinals, already confronted with a variety of troubles, today had another problem to solve through loss of Charles Hafey, outfielder.

Hafey, whose weak eyes have been handicapping him, has been offered to leave the team and will return here for treatment. With Frankie Frisch, Charlie Gelbert and Ernie Ottavio out because of injuries, Street has been depending on Hafey to supply a large part of the team's punch.

LADY BE GOOD!

to your car—

MANY thousands of Canadian Women are driving their own cars! The two-car-family vogue is good. Why should not Milady drive her own car?
But, ladies, be good to your cars! Remember they are only machines; they cannot tell you what they need, unless some day they stop dead, or get overheated and boil up! Or, maybe, they start to rattle and squeak. This is their only means of telling you that you have neglected them.
If this happens, chances are that you have not got the habit of having your car lubricated every 500 miles. This must be done regularly. If you have your car Alemite-lubricated with Alemite by a genuine Alemite dealer, who will use only the genuine Alemite Lubricants — you will not only eliminate costly breakdowns, but enjoy continuous use of your car in season and out. And your car will perform like a new one even when it is years old.

Always look for the Alemite Sign—Insist on the genuine Alemite Lubricants, refuse all substitutes, and you will be well repaid for your care.

ASSIZE JURY CONVICTS TWO IN CAR CASE

Stanley E. Wallis and Mrs. Mabel Pierce Found Guilty of False Pretence

Mrs. Pierce Is Strongly Recommended to Mercy By Trial Jury

A verdict of guilty against Stanley E. Wallis and Mrs. Mabel Pierce was returned by the trial jury at 8 o'clock last evening, after a two-day trial in the Assize Court, before Mr. Justice Gregory and jury. The jury recommended Mrs. Pierce very strongly to mercy.

The case went to the jury at 8:15 p.m. on only one count in an indictment which had alleged conspiracy to defraud and obtaining money by false pretences. The conspiracy to defraud charge was withdrawn from the jury during the course of the trial, and the finding was on the sole charge of obtaining money by false pretences.

Wallis and Mrs. Pierce took the verdict quietly, and were remanded in custody for sentence at the close of the special assizes. Both were led away by officers of the Provincial Police.

CHARGES JURY

The closing moments of the trial were featured by a brief charge to the jury by Mr. Justice Gregory, and the final address by counsel: A. M. Johnson, K.C., appearing for the Crown, and Stuart Henderson for the defence.

Mr. Justice Gregory outlined the elements of a false pretence in which the Crown had to show a false statement had been knowingly made with

Ends Piles Quick

No Salves or Cutting

Piles are caused by congestion of blood in the lower bowels. Only an internal medicine can remove the cause. That's why salves and cutting fail. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard, removes this congestion and strengthens the affected parts.

HEM-ROID is now sold by druggists everywhere, and has such a wonderful record of success even in chronic and stubborn cases that McFarlane and Vancouver Drug Stores invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID and guarantee money back if it does not end all Pile misery. (Adv.)

Orphaned Lad Decided to Win Place in World

James Short, ten years old, was a little charity school boy, and he knew it. Both his parents had died, and there was no one to look after him.
So he was sent to the large boarding school for orphaned children.

The first day, James looked at the other children, rows and rows of them, eating breakfast, all dressed alike, talking mostly in whispers. And here he was, just one boy among all those others—no different.

But he would be different, he said to himself. He didn't want to stay there always. Perhaps if he studied very, very hard and made good grades, he could leave sooner. He made up his mind, that very first day, to try.

Two years later, his good work in school had attracted the attention of the board of directors and James was sent into the Edinburgh high school, and no longer had to go to the charity school. When he grew up he became one of the first successful makers of telescopes. He was born 220 years ago to-day in Scotland.

Election Campaign In Alberta Speeded Up

Canadian Press
Edmonton, June 10.—With official nominations yesterday having put candidates away to a formal start, the party campaigns leading up to the Alberta general election June 19 are well under way to-day.

Losing no time following the nominations, which closed at 2 p.m., meetings were held last night and many more will be held to-night.

In the field are 140 candidates, including thirty-six Liberals, forty-seven Conservatives, eleven Progressives, three Communists and twenty-four Independents.

SEVENTEEN IN EDMONTON

In Edmonton seventeen persons are running for the six seats, and throughout the province government candidates were given acclamations in four of the sixty-three constituencies. Hon. J. E. Brownlee, premier, being included in that number.

In addition to the Premier the acclamations included Hon. O. L. McPherson, Minister of Public Works, Little Bow, M. C. McKee, in Lac Ste. Anne, and Hugh Allen in Peace River.

Nine candidates made last-minute withdrawals and an equal number created a surprise with unexpected entries.

with the order given by clients of the company.

ONE SHARE TRANSACTION

On the purchase of one share of Okalta, preferred on May 1, 1929, Mr. McGillivray said that on that day the Dominion Oil Exchange, per Harry Jaschunsky, had been commissioned by Soloway, Mills and Company, as agent, broker, to sell one share of Okalta, preferred, on the same day.

Soloway, Mills and Company had an order from a client to purchase one share of Okalta, preferred, on the floor of the Stock Exchange.

Traders of the brokerage firm had purchased one share from Jaschunsky on the floor of the exchange, who made the sale in competition with other agents and traders on the floor.

"Can you see there anything wrong with this transaction?" Can you tell me why it should be wiped off the accounts as has been done in this case?" Mr. McGillivray asked one witness.

The witness replied that there "might be something wrong with the transaction." He said he had taken the case to the Dominion Oil Exchange, under which the purchase and sale had been made, and then after making certain deductions, he had wiped it off the books as an "offset" sale.

When the hearing was resumed this morning, A. A. McGillivray asked that K. Morrison, C. A., who had been under examination, be allowed to step down in order that another witness might be called to the stand and Mr. McGillivray asked that witness whether or not a resolution had been passed by the company on March 31, 1929, authorizing the sale or transfer of 150,000 shares of Mayland stock.

A. MacLeod Sinclair, K.C., for the prosecution, objected to the question being asked at this time.

Mr. Justice Ives sustained the objection, ruling it was purely a matter of defence.

After explaining his position further, Mr. McGillivray accepted the decision of the court and the witness was allowed to step down without answering the original question.

POLICE SEARCH STARTED BY STORY OF BOY

The boys ran to the corner of Marine Drive and Fraser Street, Reid continued, and while standing there saw a man appear from the darkness and walk up a lane. They thought it was the man they saw leave the auto.

The youth gave the detectives a number which he thought he saw on the auto, but investigation of license records resulted in the discovery of a car different in type from that described by the boy.

This is particularly the case since the skin of the white mice and the rats is quite as sensitive as the human skin to oil irritation, and since both rats and mice sometimes suffer with cancers of the stomach and intestines, exactly as do human beings.

covered daily was approximately 484 miles.

The results obtained surprised even the most enthusiastic of the optimistic, for it was shown that the gasoline consumed amounted to only 369 gallons. The actual fuel costs amounted to only $100.04, a total of $65.90 for gas while oil amounted to $14.14.

Figured on the basis of an Imperial gallon, this would equal a mileage of about thirty miles to the gallon.

The hearing is proceeding.

Quarter of a Century As Judge, Is His Record

Judge P. S. Lampman Appointed to Office Twenty-five Years Ago This Week

Only Mr. Justice Martin Exceeds Him in Service Seniority in B.C.

Judge P. S. Lampman this week is celebrating the completion of quarter of a century on the bench. He was appointed to the judgeship of the County Court of Victoria on June 14, 1905.

Judge Lampman is senior in point of years on the whole bench of British Columbia, with the exception of Mr. Justice Martin of the Court of Appeal, who was appointed to the Supreme Court shortly before Judge Lampman went to the County Court.

Judge Lampman shares with Judge P. B. Young, of Atlin, the distinction of seniority on the County Court bench, as the two were appointed at the same time.

"Yes, things change in twenty-five years," said Judge Lampman to-day in looking back over his career. "ADMITTED TO BAR IN '93"

In his early days here after being admitted to the British Columbia bar in 1893, the judge started out on his law career as partner with the late George Powell. In 1895 he was appointed secretary of the B.C. Law Society and acted as that office until he was elevated to the bench. The sheep-

Tacoma placed second in the men's section, while Bellingham, less than half-one per cent lower than Bremerton, finished second among the women.

Scores of citizens and visitors lined the drill ground on Blanshard Street to witness the drill exercises. The judges paid high tribute to the smart precision with which the different units performed.

In making their report on the competition, the judges commended the officers for their skillful coaching and untiring work in bringing the different teams up to such a high standard.

The complete results of the competitions follow: Seattle 96.1, Tacoma 95.8, Bellingham 95.9, Bremerton 98.5, Renton 98.7.

The percentage of the various auxiliary contests shows the following: Bremerton 98.5, Bellingham 98.1, Snohomish 97.7, Everett 97.4, Kelso 97.3, Tacoma 97.2 and Yakima 95.1.

Only two drum and trumpet corps of those of Snohomish Aerie and Willapa Harbor were entered. Both did excellent work, the judges awarding the prizes as follows: Snohomish first and Willapa Harbor second.

Robert A. Kootz, Victor Forslund, Hans R. P. Blair and Perry McCune acted as judges.

Descendant of Author of "Rule Britannia" Attends Eagles' Convention

W. H. Thomson of Kelso and Frank Thomson of Victoria Hold Family Reunion

When W. H. Thomson of Kelso, Wash., shook hands here with Frank Thomson of Victoria, last week, a reunion of the family which produced one of Britain's famous poets, James Thomson, who was the author of "Rule Britannia" and contemporary with Pope and Samuel Johnson.

The great-grandfathers of the two Thomsons were cousins. The Kelso visitor is seventy-six years of age, and is visiting Victoria as a member of the Kelso delegation to the Empire convention. He brought with him a rare volume of his great-grandfather's poetical works, dedicated to Queen Anne in 1710.

SETTLED IN CANADA
Mr. Thomson says his grandfather, Benjamin Thomson, with his brother Thomas, came to Canada in 1780 and settled for many years at Malvern, Ontario. In 1840 Thomas Thomson went to California and in 1851 the elder brother and his family moved to Westport, Oregon.

The reunion of the Thomsons was achieved as a result of a family visit made last year, where it was agreed that all members of the family should meet at Kelso, where the great-grandfather's home was a means of keeping track of the descendants.

SPAIN'S BEAUTY FORMS THEME OF TALK TO KIWANIS

Miss Kathleen Agnew Takes Club Members on World Tour of Old World

Beautiful Cathedral of Seville and Ruins of Alhambra Are Described

The glories of Spain, past and present, as seen by a Victorian, were described to members of the Kiwanis Club at luncheon to-day by Miss Kathleen Agnew, who recently returned from a trip to Europe.

Miss Agnew outlined her journey from the time she left Victoria, praising the service she had received across this continent on a Great Northern Railway train. By a French line steamer, she had crossed the Atlantic, stopping at the Azores and Madeira.

An excellent description of Gibraltar was given by Miss Agnew, who climbed to the top of the rock to touch the British flag and view the Mediterranean Sea on one side and the Atlantic on the other. People in Gibraltar used "desalted" sea water for bathing and washing purposes, and their drinking water was stored in gigantic natural troughs.

Wonderful roads, 7,000 miles in extent, made motoring a pleasure throughout Spain, and their drinking water was stored in gigantic natural troughs.

Miss Agnew's hearers were taken on a tour of the Alhambra at Granada, where at first a disappointing sight but after careful inspection revealed a wealth of beauty and historic interest.

"Spain," she said, "is a treasure house of marvellous and beautiful things that the people of bygone centuries built for the pleasure of construction and for their beauty."

The ruins of the Alhambra at Granada were at first a disappointing sight but after careful inspection revealed a wealth of beauty and historic interest.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

Winnipeg, June 10.—Wheat was under pressure from the south, opening prices about 1/2 cent lower, the market gradually sinking until prices were about 2 cents under the close yesterday. Liverpool practically ignored and advance made in this market the two days were closed, and while there had been a fair export business over the week-end with sales estimated around 1,500,000 bushels Manitoba, there was very little business overnight, only a few odd lots being worked.

The situation appeared discouraging with a poor demand for cash wheat with a bad break in barley prices and rye selling at a heavy discount under corn with no foreign demand for any of the coarse grains, combined with extreme weakness in the stock markets the past few days, were all features that had effect on sentiment, and there were few who appeared willing to buy anything at present.

The selling today was largely liquidation by those who had been buying the past two or three days, and the forecast promised no relief for today or Wednesday. However, the crop has been able to make good root due to earlier rains and cool weather, and no serious deterioration is anticipated if general rains and cool weather, and no serious deterioration is anticipated if general rains come within another week.

The Chicago market was also weak and naturally had its effect here. Both Canadian and government reports from United States government are due this afternoon. Wheat closed 1/4 lower. Some short covering at the finish.

Coarse grains: The feature of the market was the drastic break of 4 cents in barley prices, the market meeting liquidation sales which carried it into steep selling. There was a little reaction from the extreme break, but the demand was very poor and nobody appears to want barley.

Oats held steady and firm during the first part, but the weakness in barley finally pulled oats down. Flax finally weakened in sympathy with weakness in general list, closing from 3 cents to 3 1/2 cents lower.

Shall a Wife Tell Her Husband of Another Woman's Admiration for Him?—Shall the Battle-scarred Soldier of Fortune Marry a Young Girl?

DEAR MISS DIX—Last night I heard a woman say to her husband: "I do believe Mary is in love with you." Don't you think it a mistake for her to have said such a thing, even if it were true? Do you think a wife should pay compliments to her husband? I think men are vain enough as it is. I have often wanted to tell my husband something nice about himself, but I have kept silent for fear of making him conceited.

BUBBLES.

ANSWER—I agree with you that a woman is an utter idiot who tells her husband that some other woman is in love with him. Great is the power of suggestion, and there is no other way in which a man can so easily be turned into a pharisee as to be told that he has a fatal fascination for some woman.

He may never have noticed her before, but to find out that he has charmed her immediately rouses his interest in her, and he would be more than human if he didn't begin experimenting to find out how deep an impression he had made upon her. Also, it would create a sentimental interest in him for her, because we all just naturally admire the people who admire us and regard them as having superior intelligence and taste. Nothing is truer than the old saying that love begets love.

Part of the tragedy of the jealous wife is that she brings her misfortune down upon her own head by this power of suggestion. For in always accusing her husband of being unfaithful to her and having affairs with other women she makes him believe that he is such a shiek that no woman can resist him, and this sends him forth to try out his charms upon every female he meets.

A wise wife never tells her husband how much other women admire him, but she gets out the cynabar and beats upon them in celebrating her own good opinion of him. I want to warn you that you refrain from praising your husband you are making a fatal mistake and opening the door for some lady with honey on her tongue. For men have an insatiable sweet tooth, and if their wives will not feed them taffy they will find some one who will.

Did you ever really ask yourself why your husband married you? Did you ever consider what one thing induced him to forfeit his personal liberty and assume your board bill and shopping ticket for life? It was because he thought he had found in you a perpetual clique. Some one who admired him above every other man in the world. Some one who thought that he was wise and witty and strong and virile and generous and kind and possessed of all the major and minor virtues.

Well, consider, then, what a blighting disappointment it must be to a man to find out after he has gotten married that instead of his wife giving him the glad hand she gives him nothing but knocks. Consider how let down he must feel when she just takes for granted all that he does for her and never so much as says "thank you." Think how sold out he must feel when she never even gives him a pat on the head when he does well.

Don't you suppose that your husband likes a compliment now just as much as he did before he was married? Don't you suppose that he wants to know that you still think that he is handsome and that in any company you consider him the most distinguished-looking man present? Don't you suppose that he wants you to tell him every day, in every way, how you appreciate his generosity and that you do down on your knees thanking heaven for having sent you such a husband?

Believe me, my dear Bubbles, if wives weren't so stingy with their compliments there wouldn't be so many husbands running around looking for women who "understand" them. Why, one of the fundamental necessities of a man is to have some woman to whom he can brag as he could not to another man and who will hand him out fulsome praise by the bucketful. Perhaps men are vain. So are women, for that matter. And this being the case and all of us craving flattery, why not have enough sense to meet the home demand instead of letting it be supplied by a stranger?

The wife who keeps her husband is she who makes the home brew of flattery so strong and potent her husband never craves any other.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am an engineer, forty-seven years old. Widower with one child crippled from birth. Have had a hard life. Twenty-five years of war with natives and disease, man and beast, have left their marks upon me. Carry marks of smallpox, love token of a grisly bear, throat scars from a snow leopard, minus an ear from a poisoned arrow, a bad lip from a shell with the compliments of Von Hindenburg. No ladies' man, but loved and was loved by one woman only—my wife. Came to a small New England place on a job. Met a little girl, young enough to be my daughter, who had fallen in love with me and wanted to marry me. Am fond of her, but not love; that comes to a man like me only once. She insists on marrying me. I need a wife, my child needs a mother, but I am going to South Africa on a job and what about her side of it? Can any love span the gap of a quarter of a century? What about taking her from her ordered, dignified, New England life to a rough mining camp? Is it playing the game to let her marry me? I would sooner try to finish a leopard bare-handed than to hurt her even a little.

W. B. G.

ANSWER—Like Desdemona, she loves you for the dangers you have known, and it is easy to see why you have captured her fancy and are the hero of her girlish dreams. Of course, whether you should marry her or not is something that you must settle for yourself, but if your heart is not too deeply buried in your first wife's grave, I should say that such a marriage was likely to bring great happiness to you both, and if it had not all the romance of spring in it for you, you would find that there is still fragrance in an autumnal blooming.

Nor is the marriage so unfair to the girl as you seem to think. To begin with, life in a little village is generally a pretty dull affair. Nor does it offer many opportunities of brilliant marriage. Generally most of the men who have enterprise and ability have left to seek their fortunes in other parts of the world. I have known of many such communities full of pretty and charming and desirable girls, but in which there was scarcely an eligible male.

Certainly men like you, who have been up and down the world and had all sorts of colorful adventures, men of your knowledge and outlook and background, seldom come her way, and so if you do not marry her it is not likely that she will ever have another chance to marry a man who is your equal. She will probably have to marry some stolid farmer or some clerk, whose most thrilling line of conversation will be the price of potatoes and canned goods.

Furthermore, you offer her a far more interesting life than the dull, ordered, drab one she will have if you leave her in her little village where nothing ever happens to a woman except washing on Monday and ironing on Tuesday and cleaning house on Wednesday and baking on Thursday and on Friday and cleaning house on Wednesday and baking on Thursday and so repeat. Perhaps life in a mining camp may be full of hardships, but it is also full of pep. And don't forget that many of these New England girls are the granddaughters of the old sea captains and have in their blood the love of adventure.

But there's wishing you luck whichever way you decide it.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a boy of twenty. My girl wants to get married right away, and I think my salary is not big enough for us to live on. Also, I love another girl better than I do her. What should I do? Keep away from her or marry her to keep from breaking her heart?

KIND-HEARTED BOY.

ANSWER—Don't be kind-hearted enough to let a girl rush you into marriage before you are ready for it or make you marry her when you love another girl. That is running aimlessly into the ground. Harden your heart and stiffen your spine and break off with the young lady who is pursuing you.

Most Trade Boards Favor Operation By One National Company

Sixty-seven chambers of commerce or boards of trade in Canada voted in favor of placing a basis of public service with provincial authorities having control of the program in their respective areas, according to information received by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce. Forty-four opposed the idea and seventeen made non-committal replies.

The chambers were sought through a questionnaire sent out by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce opinion being sought on the report of the Royal Commission recommending that broadcasting be placed on a basis of public service; that stations, providing service of this kind, should be owned and operated by one national company, and that provincial authorities should have full control over the program of the station or stations in their respective areas.

Twenty-seven boards of trade in British Columbia voted in the affirmative. Chilliwack and Sidney voted in the negative.

Dardanelles Plan Given Endorsement

Endorsement of the city council's recent move in the Dardanelles widening scheme, was given in a communication from the Victoria West Brotherhood, laid before the council yesterday evening. It was felt, the letter stated, that this move was a progressive one in the best interests of civic development.

The radio industry, in the manufacturing end alone, employs more than 300,000 persons, according to the Radio Manufacturers Association.

SAN FRANCISCO SHIPPING

San Francisco, June 10.—Purchase of the four-masted barque Star of Lapland from the Alaska Packers' Association by the Marine Ship Museum Company, Los Angeles, was reported here yesterday. Shipping authorities said the vessel will be renamed the Pacific Queen and after she is reconditioned, will be sent on a cruise around the world. The vessel will probably leave San Francisco for San Pedro within three weeks.

The smallest vessel arriving here during the eleven-hour ending at 11 a.m. yesterday was the coastal steamer Harvard, 514 tons, Alameda manager of the marine department of the Chamber of Commerce, reported.

During the eleven hours, 33,000 tons of shipping arrived, the largest vessel being the Susan V. Luckenbach, of 4,566 tons.

Jean Tiller, general secretary of the French Line, will arrive here Friday aboard the motorship Winnipeg from Victoria.

Alaska Steamers Will Have Busy Two Months

Many Coast Ships Will Handle Record Movement of Passengers to Northern Ports

Three Princess Steamers, Three Prince Vessels and U.S. Liner Heavily Booked

The summer tourist sailings from Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle to Alaska ports and northern British Columbia are now well under way, and most of the steamship companies operating in this route have already dispatched their ships to the north in which service they will remain until the close of the season in early September.

Every year the Alaska season calls to more and more travelers from all parts of Canada and the United States. This year the companies predict more people than ever before will make the magnificent trip to the land of the midnight sun. The bookings show that most of these people are from the United States, primarily from eastern points.

The Canadian Pacific has been operating to Alaska all winter, but last month placed the steamer Princess Louise on the run to cope with a larger movement of passengers. The Louise is still maintaining the northern service, and will be joined shortly by the steamers Princess Charlotte and Princess Alice, both of which are now in Victoria being overhauled in preparation for the tourist season. Together the three steamers will give a twice weekly service from Victoria and Vancouver to Prince Rupert, Ketchikan, Juneau, Wrangell and Skagway.

FIRST C.N. TRIP

Commencing last night the Canadian National steamship will operate all summer from Vancouver to Alaska ports. The steamer Prince George took the first sailing of the season from the mainland port last night at 10 o'clock, and will be joined next week by her sister ship, the Prince Rupert. The new steamer Prince Henry, now on her way here from England, where she was built, will make her first trip to the north from Vancouver on July 3, taking a trip out of Vancouver every Thursday night from then until the end of August. The Henry, with her increased speed, will be able to make the round trip of approximately 3,000 miles in a week, including many stops.

SEATTLE SHIPPING

Seattle, June 10.—Instead of bringing Eskimos and Indians to hospitals in the states the United States Coast Guard will be sent to Alaska, storing materials for two hospitals aboard the steamship Derby which will sail Wednesday for Alaska.

One of the hospitals will be built at Kotzebue sound and the other at Mountain Village on the lower Yukon River.

Each hospital will have a doctor, two trained nurses, an orderly and a cook. Native girls will be trained as practical nurses. Dr. Jonathan H. Wagner, chief of the Alaska division of the bureau, said.

Bringing a passenger list of 250 from California the H. F. Alexander docked here yesterday. The vessel carried the round trip of approximately 3,000 miles sailed to-day, officials of the Pacific Steamship Company announced.

Routine reports of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company showed a gain of 10,000 tons in eastward and westward freight on Puget Sound during the first five months of 1930 as compared to the corresponding period of 1929.

Most of the increased cargoes were loaded or discharged in Seattle and Tacoma.

NOTICE TO MARINERS

Mariners are hereby advised that the light on Point Grey Gas and Bell Buoy Strait of Georgia, B.C. is reported not burning. This light will be attended to as soon as possible.

RIDES NIAGARA RAPIDS IN BARREL

Battered but triumphant, William "Red" Hill is shown here as he completed a tempestuous five-hour trip through the lower Niagara rapids and whirlpool, below the falls. Hill is shown in the steel barrel in which he made the trip; a sliding trap made the barrel watertight while he was shooting the perilous rapids.

Two President Ships Are Due Here This Week

Will Be Open For General Inspection at Rithet Piers All Day To-morrow

Two trans-Pacific steamers of the American Mail Line will be in port this week, one inbound on Friday night and the other outbound Saturday afternoon.

The liner President Taft is expected here from the Orient early Friday evening with cargo and a good number of passengers. After spending the evening here she will sail at midnight for Seattle, being due in the Sound port at 8 o'clock Saturday morning.

Outbound to the Far East the liner President Pierce will sail from the Rithet piers here on Saturday afternoon. She will dock from Seattle at 8 o'clock in the afternoon and will sail for the other side of the Pacific two hours later.

Princess Elizabeth To Take Excursion On Dominion Day

The new C.P.R. coast steamer Princess Elizabeth will take her first excursion trip out of Victoria on July 1, to Bellingham, under the auspices of the Robert Burns McKicking Chapter, I.O.P.E.

The Elizabeth will leave the Belleville Street docks on the morning of Dominion Day at 9 o'clock, and will return here in the evening about 9:30 o'clock. This will give the excursionists about five hours in Bellingham, where the Robert Burns McKicking Chapter, I.O.P.E., will be carried for dancing and concerts, and luncheon and dinner will be served aboard the steamer.

Old Seafarer Of Vancouver Passes

Vancouver, June 10.—Vancouver's waterfront lost one of its most picturesque characters Monday in the death of Capt. Knute Alfred Gronlund, a veteran navigator of coastal waters and a resident of British Columbia for more than forty years. He was fifty-nine years of age.

Capt. Gronlund was port captain for Frank Waterhouse & Co. of Canada and master of the coastal freighter Kestholm. He was senior captain of the company.

South Africa has been expanding its poultry industry rapidly, a recent estimate showing more than 4,000,000 chickens in the Transvaal and Orange Free State.

Hikawa Maru HERE TO-DAY FOR SHIFTSURE

Will Be Open For General Inspection at Rithet Piers All Day To-morrow

Many Thousands Went Over Handsome New Ship in Vancouver on Sunday

Completing a three-day visit to Vancouver, during which time many receptions, luncheons, dinners and public inspections were held aboard, the new Nippon Yusen Kaisha motor liner, Hikawa Maru arrived in Victoria this afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock and berthed at Rithet piers, where she will remain until to-morrow at midnight.

In the evening a formal dinner will be held aboard the ship to which His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, government and civic officials, and railway and steamship representatives have been invited.

Nearly 15,000 people inspected the Hikawa Maru at her berth in Vancouver on Sunday. This was nearly 4,000 more than went over the ship in Seattle last week. Many Victorians are greatly interested in the new steamer, and preparations are being made to receive many hundreds to-morrow.

The Hikawa Maru and her two sister-ships, the Hye Maru and the Heian Maru, were built by the company for North Pacific passenger-freight service. They provide comfortable accommodations for all classes and set a new standard in Pacific transportation, company officials declare.

Every modern device for safe handling of passengers and cargo is installed. In the wheelhouse are gyro compass and steering devices to handle the ship, and a speedometer, governed by the pressure of water passing through a small tube on the keel of the ship, gives constant information of the vessel's progress.

An ingenious fire and smoke detector, leading from all parts of the ship, centres here in a compact box. It gives the location of any fire. The watertight doors are all controlled from the wheelhouse.

Elevators and wide stairways connect the different decks and the accommodations for steerage passengers set a new standard for the Pacific.
